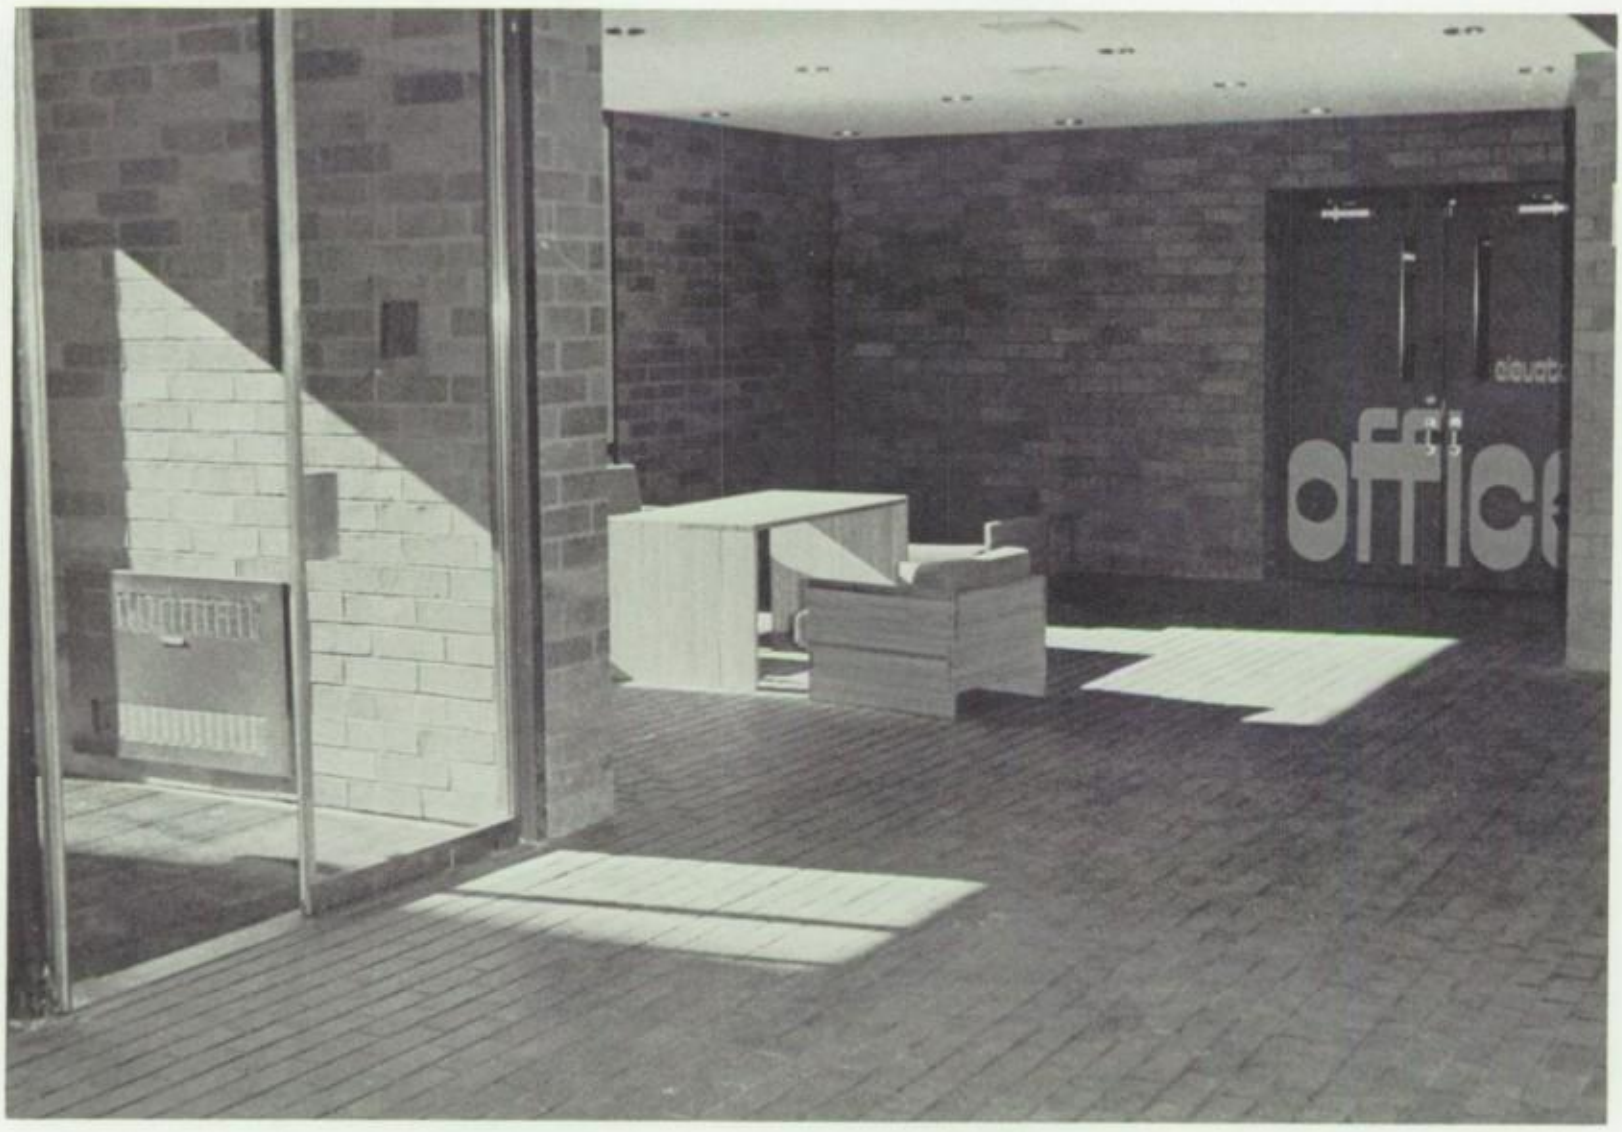
MELROSE HIGH SCHOOL

1976 LOG

MELROSE, MASSACHUSETTS

Our class of 1976 is a very special class. We have lived through the construction of our new high school and we have grown along with it. After five years of double sessions and sharing a school with the Junior High we now have a school built to accommodate us. We are the first graduating class of this new school. At last we have found a place of our own.



DOUBLE SESSIONS WILL ALWAYS BE REMEMBERED FOR:
Staging a walk-out in ninth grade.
Eating food during study.
Fighting our way out at noon through the surging Junior High tide.
Meeting for activities at strange places during awkward times.
Going to school on snow days when the Junior High didn't.
Leaving school early to prevent parking lot jams.
Living through LONG periods on Wednesdays.
Not having D block on Tuesday . . . Not having C block on Friday . . . Not having E block on Thursday.
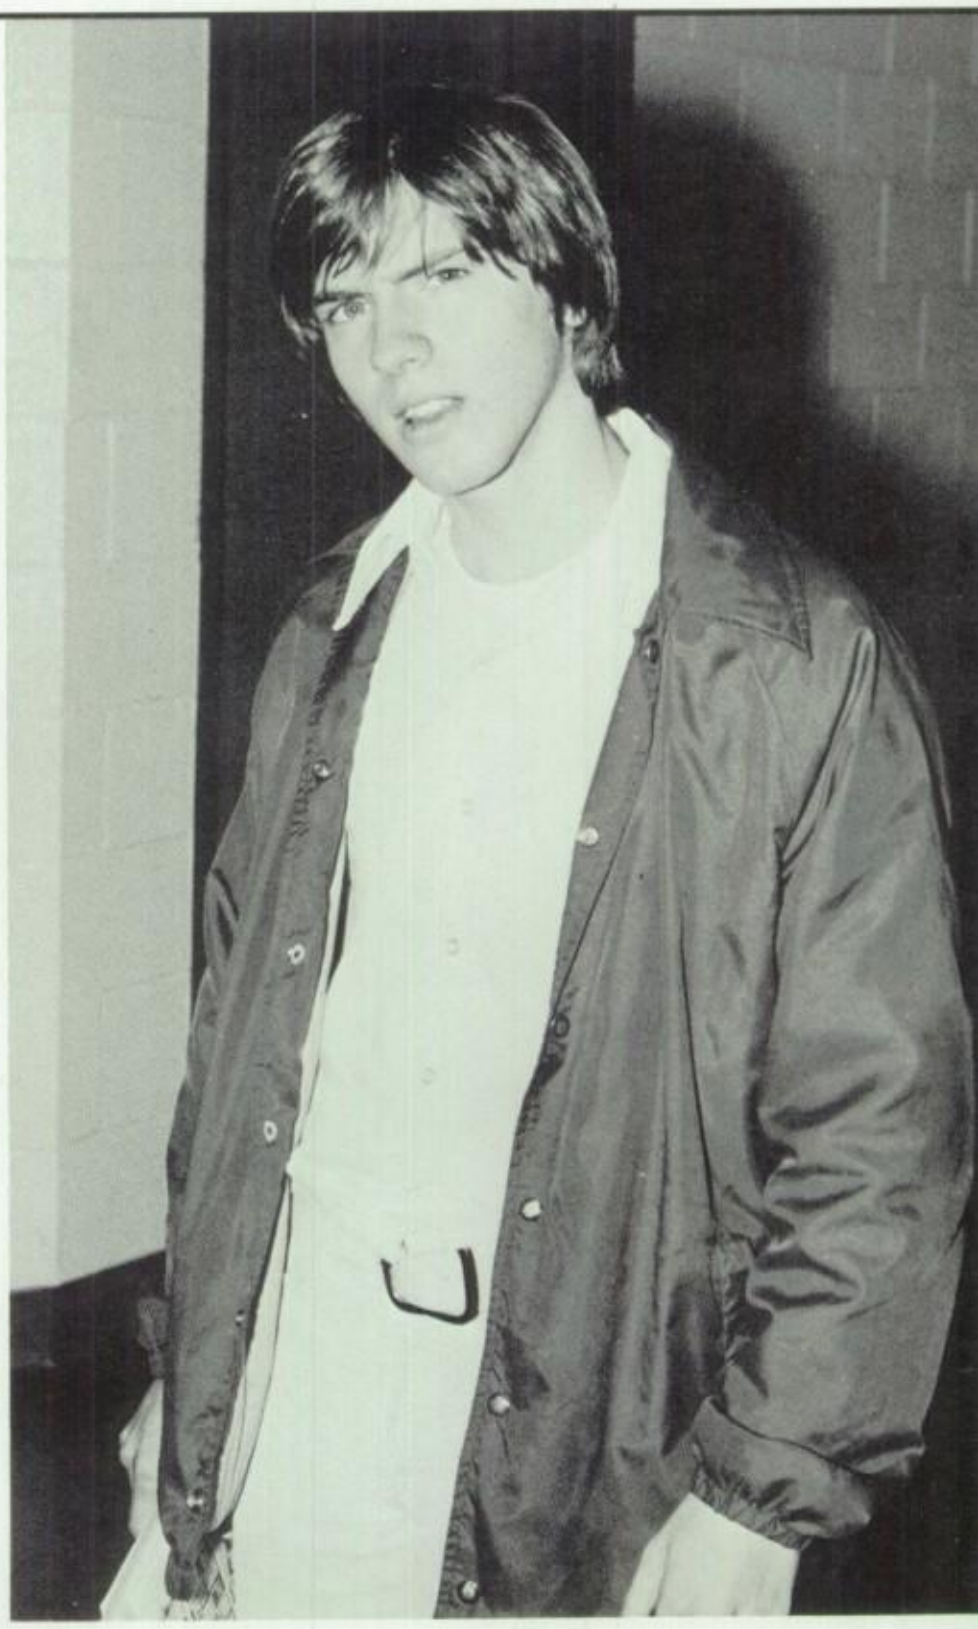
Sleeping in gym, in math, in work study or on the bus; it didn't really matter where.
And having a whole afternoon to play.

The new Resource Center provides a pleasant atmosphere for study.

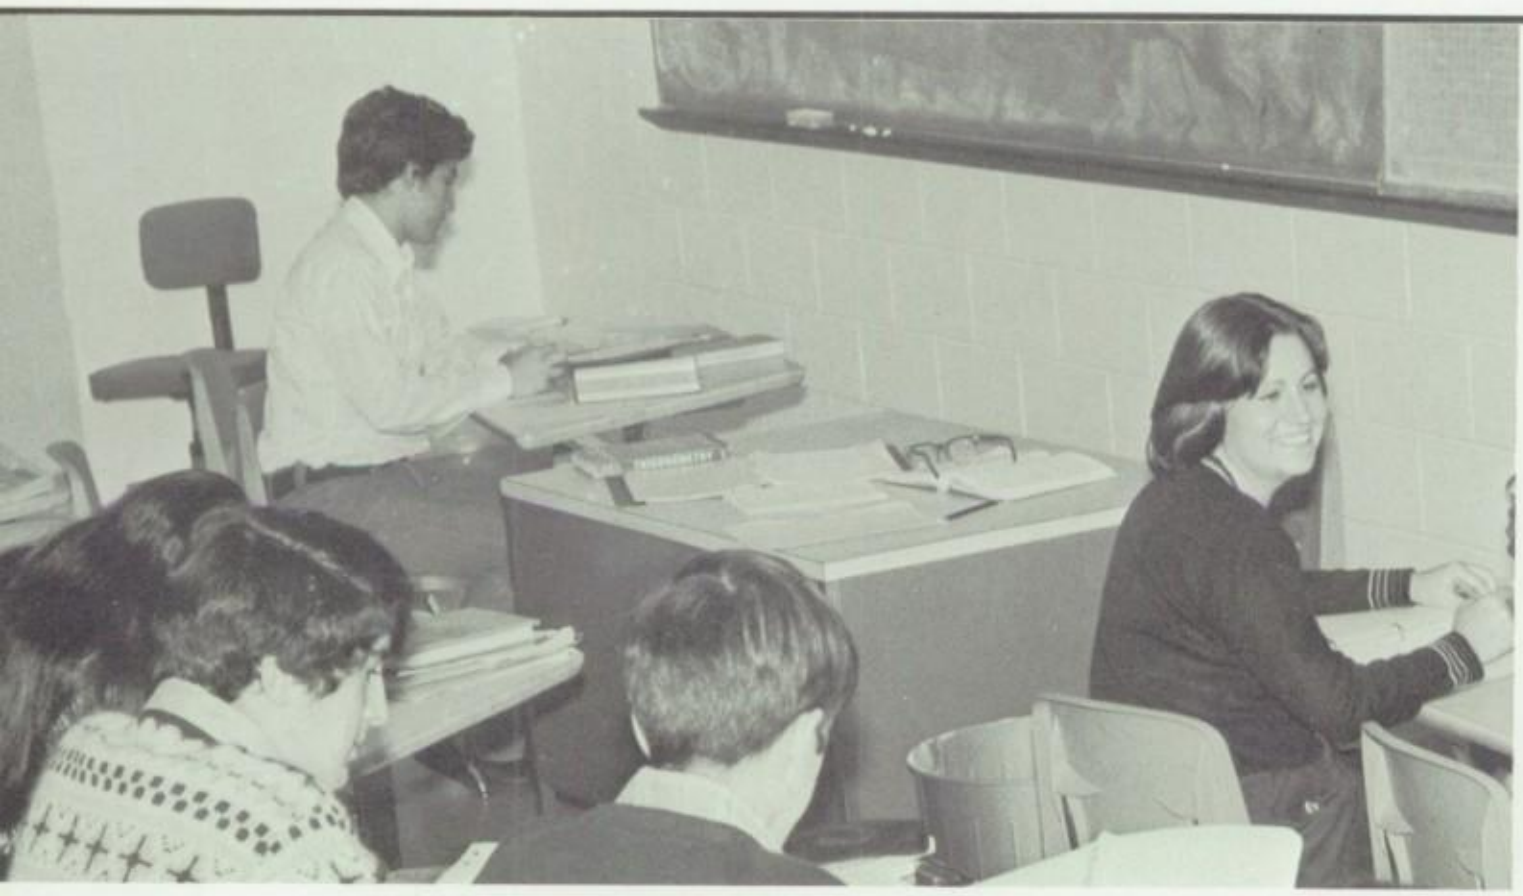


"Where Am I?"

Susan Mugherini takes advantage of the comforts of the new school.

THE NEW HIGH SCHOOL WILL ALWAYS BE REMEMBERED FOR:
Having to follow a map for the first few days of school.
Living through a six-day school week.
Waiting in 10 mile lines for a 5¢ milk.
Selling nylons in the school store.
And getting out at 2:30 with the grammar schools.

Our Senior year is a busy one filled with homework, jobs, and decisions. Important to us too are the worldly things — a first vote in a presidential election, a possible trip to the Olympics, and the 200th Anniversary of our country. Yet none of these will be as important as the time we've spent together.



Nancy Kiley takes a short break from trigonometry.

The Class of 1976 gathers in the new cafetorium for opening day exercises . . . September 10, 1975.

Hey Kid,
What can I say?
The good times were many:
concerts, trying our hardest to find a good party on a weekend night, going to the Prom, making those costumes for Halloween and getting our driver's licenses together — knowing that you were there meant a lot to me. The academics of school we might like to forget but it's the Senior Life that we will always remember. Especially since we are the first Seniors in the place of our own.

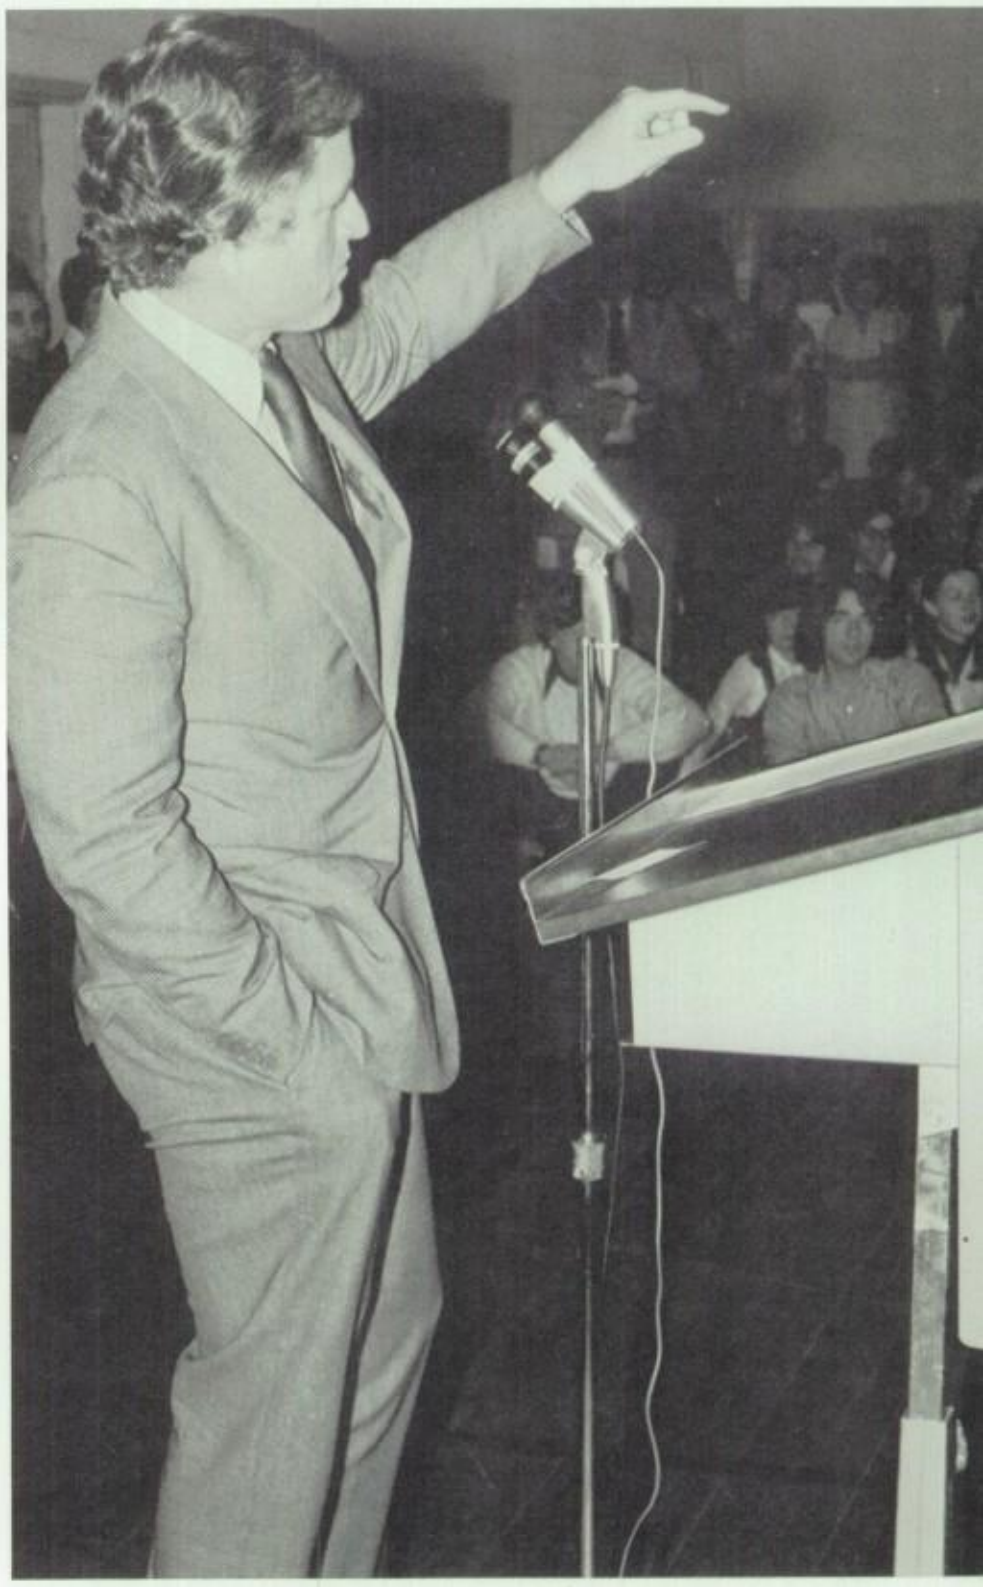
SENIOR LIFE

A Visitor From The Senate

On Tuesday, November 25, 1975, we enjoyed the distinction of having Senator Edward M. Kennedy come to visit us. The three upper classes jammed into the Daffinee Gym to see the Senator, followed by his secret service men. The applause became heavy at his prediction that the football team would defeat Wakefield High in the annual Thanksgiving Day game. During his visit, students presented him with three gifts: a handmade bowl, an M.H.S. diploma and a Melrose '76 shirt. For the next ten minutes he spoke to the students, urging them to play an active role in their government as their counterparts in the 1960's had, and cautioning them not to be disillusioned by the events of Watergate. He hoped that students would help solve the major problems confronting the nation and the world. After speaking, he asked the audience questions involving opinions on the economy, drugs and the upcoming Presidential election. He then answered prepared questions. As his visit came to a close, the band played a final song and the Senator left with a smile and a wave.

Senator Kennedy stresses student involvement in community affairs.



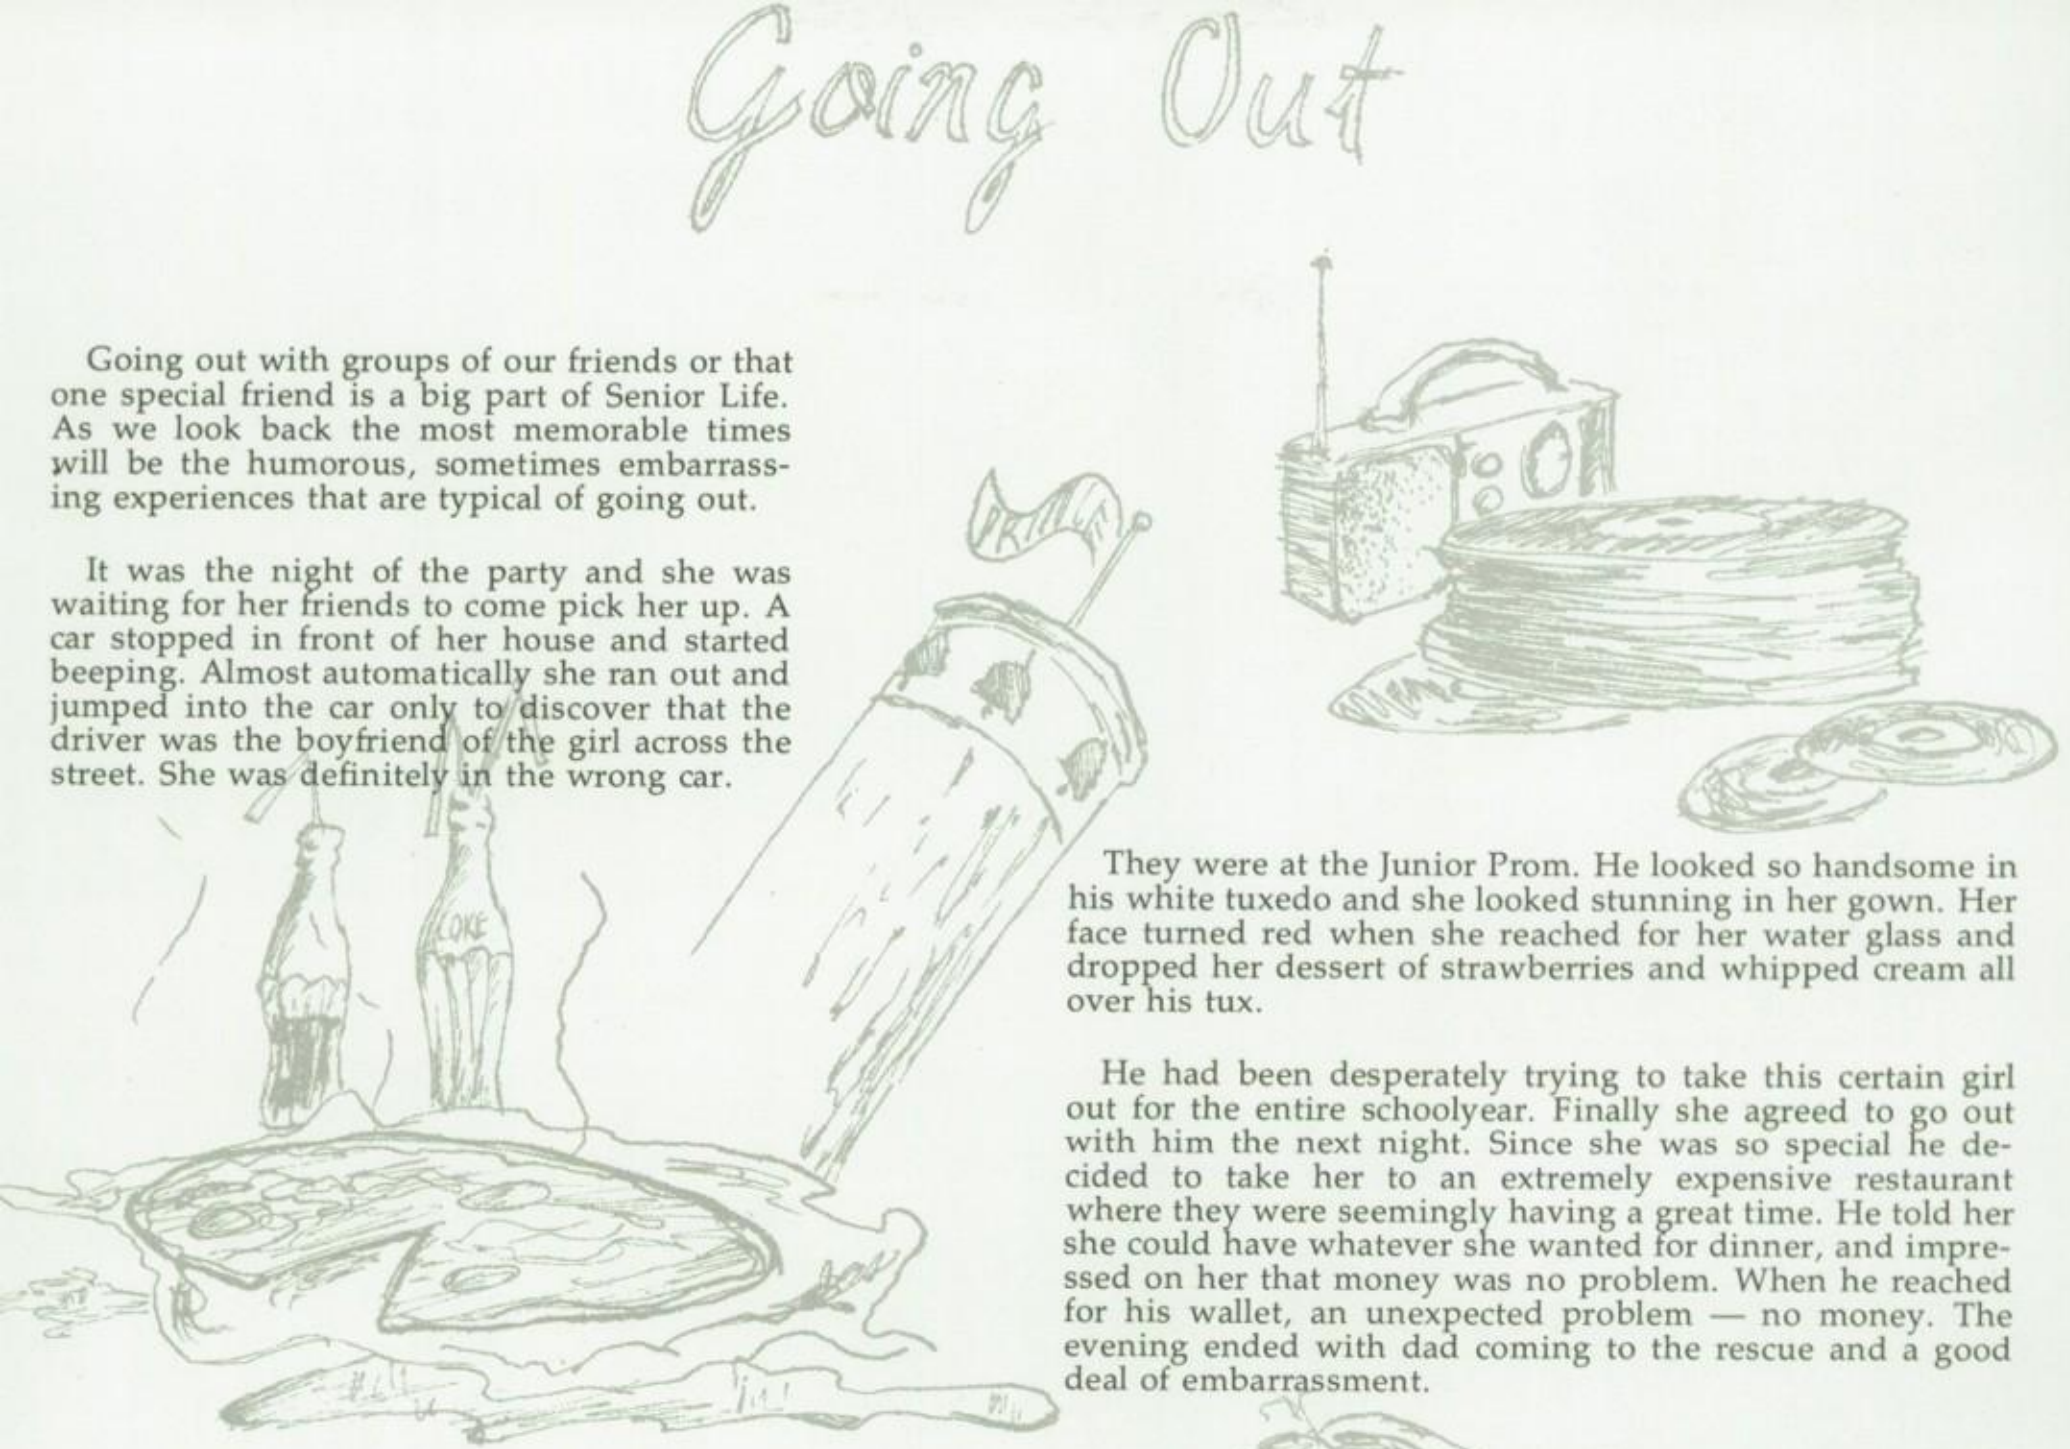
"How many of you think that the use of pot has increased?"

"I was wondering what I was going to wear to the Senate tomorrow."

Going Out

Going out with groups of our friends or that one special friend is a big part of Senior Life. As we look back the most memorable times will be the humorous, sometimes embarrassing experiences that are typical of going out.

It was the night of the party and she was waiting for her friends to come pick her up. A car stopped in front of her house and started beeping. Almost automatically she ran out and jumped into the car only to discover that the driver was the boyfriend of the girl across the street. She was definitely in the wrong car.



They were at the Junior Prom. He looked so handsome in his white tuxedo and she looked stunning in her gown. Her face turned red when she reached for her water glass and dropped her dessert of strawberries and whipped cream all over his tux.

He had been desperately trying to take this certain girl out for the entire schoolyear. Finally she agreed to go out with him the next night. Since she was so special he decided to take her to an extremely expensive restaurant where they were seemingly having a great time. He told her she could have whatever she wanted for dinner, and impressed on her that money was no problem. When he reached for his wallet, an unexpected problem — no money. The evening ended with dad coming to the rescue and a good deal of embarrassment.

Going to the movies was the usual date for them. At intermission he left to get some popcorn and drinks but because there was such a long line in front of the counter he returned to the movie after the lights had been turned off. When he returned to his seat she was sitting with her arms around some other guy. After making his presence known to the couple she jumped up, realizing that she had become so involved in the movie that she hadn't seen that the boy next to her was the wrong one.

Of course there was the time that the boys got together and went looking for their friends and their dates at Spot Pond. They thought they were funny when they turned on the car's high beams, beeped the horn, and yelled, "Where's my daughter?" They never saw so many people jump so fast in all their lives.

Rally

I remember the Thanksgiving Eve Rally . . . "The Wizard of M" . . . "This is an M.H.S. Production: Roar!!" . . . welcome tumblers . . . meetings at houses to write the skit . . . "there's another meeting tonight?" . . . drawing lots for the parts . . . "I want to be Dan McCormack!" . . . practice, practice, practice . . . making all the scenery and getting the costumes . . . "What does a Crunchkin look like?" . . . changing the tumbling routine . . . the cheerleaders' pyramid . . . "We're supposed to do a pyramid? You can't be serious!" . . . learning how to twirl . . . getting the cheers right . . . a perfect practice the night before . . . Wednesday night at last . . . Danathea and Pogo . . . Our Junior Prom, held at Casa de Fior on April 11, 1975, provides fond memories for all who attended. The evening began with a special dinner. Then tuxedos and gowns sprang to life on the crowded dance floor which seemed to sway with the music of the band. After people left the hall they dispersed for the various parties around the city. The entire night was probably the most expensive of the year but, in truth, it was worth the money.

"Who is that under there?" . . . "Hey, look at the two birds!" . . . "She looks like she is really dead." . . . were some of the comments made at the 1975 annual Halloween Party. On Thursday, October 30, at 7:00 P.M., over one hundred costumed seniors marched into the cafetorium awaiting feasts and fun arranged by the Senior Class Officers. Bees, nuns, clowns, babies, Jack and Jill, Spanky and the Gang, and many more creatively dressed individuals got a turn to participate in games such as donut eating, relay races, pie eating contests, and bobbing for apples. To complete the night, everyone joined in a costume parade judged by the chaperons. The results: Most Beautiful — Bruce Wenner, the good-looking woman; Funniest — Jack Murphy, the frogman; Scariest — Corinne Morris, the vampire; Most Original — Nancy Kiley, the doughgirl; also Most Original — Joan Corcoran and Jane Lickly, the Charmin; Best Couple — Patty Behrle and Kathy Berube, the Marx Brothers; and Best All Around — Susan Morello, the brilliantly colored clown.

The 1975 Powder-Puff football game can only be described as a classic struggle between two outstanding teams appropriately called "The Rowdie Reds" and "White Lightening". In a defense oriented game, the Red team narrowly defeated the White team by a score of 8-6.

During the first half of the game, White Lightening did most of the controlling of the ball with superb efforts by Heather Whittier, Wendy Schluntz, Georgia MaGuire and Lynne Cerretani. In spite of the driving offense of the White team, no points were scored until later in the game.

In the last quarter, Carol Gibelli of the Red team finally broke through the White's offense to score on an eighty-five yard run. To further their lead, Brenda Fogarty got the two-point conversion. However, the White team started to move again and after three plays, Heather Whittier ran it out for a touchdown. Unfortunately, on the conversion attempt, Wendy Schluntz was stopped at the goal line.

NAMES AND FACES

There are many special activities and awards that we have taken advantage of outside of school. Since our abilities and interests are so varied, the range of activities is also extremely varied. Our class is comprised of some very exciting people whose names and faces add new dimensions to our school. The reporting of their accomplishments gives a new prospective to our endless achievements.

During the past year PATRICA DURNEY has been a member of the Jordan Marsh Creative Fashion Council Board. She is one of sixteen girls in the Boston area who are members of this Board. Through Mrs. Bloom in the Occupational Education department, Patricia obtained an application for this position. Then she attended a personal interview and submitted an outfit that she herself had made. The Board attends monthly meetings and participates in fashion shows where the girls model clothes that they have made themselves. Their terms end in May with a fashion contest that sends the winner to New York city for three days. Patricia also participated in the national contest called "Make It Yourself With Wool" in which she won the second runner-up.

Almost everyone during either their Junior or Senior year comes to school one Saturday morning to take either the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test or the S.A.T.'s given by the C.E.E.B.. They are comprised of both Math and English and require about three hours to complete. Approximately six weeks after taking the S.A.T.'s the results come directly to your home in the mail. Opening the envelope and seeing your results can be a very traumatic experience, but for some students, like JANICE DUFFY and CHARLES CROCETTI, it can be very rewarding. Both Janice and Charles have been semifinalists in the 1976 National Merit Scholarship Program. They are among the highest scoring students in Massachusetts and are considered in the top half of the nation's most academically talented people. The decision for finalists is released in April and then those finalists who meet the qualifications will be considered for four-year Merit Scholarships.

RICHARD PIDGEON and JOHN BLACKWOOD toured the countries of Holland, England, France, Germany, Switzerland, Italy, and Austria with the United States Collegiate Band. They were selected from students in forty-five states, thanks to Band leader Frank DiGiacomo who sent in applications for them to the U.S. Hall of Fame for Band Honors. The tour lasted for three unforgettable weeks.

John Blackwood

Both JOHN MURPHY and DEBBIE RICE have been sailing for more than eight years and love it. Separately they can display shelves of trophies and awards for the many races that they have won. For the upcoming sailing season which begins in May, Debbie and John plan to team for the School Sailing States Regatta which hopefully will add to their winnings.

Being a Senior is an expensive proposition but for JOHN SHINAY there is no need to worry. On November 17, 1975, in the Yankee Doodle Instant Game, John won $1,776 a month for an entire year. This made him eligible to become a contestant on the Big Money Game Show. His winnings did not increase after competing on the show but John can't complain. The money he won he plans to put toward his college education.

On the night of December 21, 1975 LINDA MACLACHLAN had a very frightening experience. What began as a simple Christmas party at her family's summer home ended as a night she will always remember. One of her guests noticed two people on the beach and, as it was extremely cold and rather late, they realized that something was wrong. They went out to the two people who said they had come from a boat which had just capsized. Linda and her friends brought them into the house and then went searching for the other people. Originally, there had been six people traveling on the boat but only three survived. Linda said that as a result of her experience she now realizes the importance of life.

ACADEMICS

After a library with scratched conference tables and hard-back chairs, they give us a Resource Center with study carrels and cushioned chairs.
After classrooms with bolted-down steel chairs and floors with missing tiles, they give us open spaces and carpeting.
After no heat in the winter and too much heat in the summer,
they give us air conditioning.
After a leaky gym with wooden floors,
they give us a gym complex with polyturf.
At last we have a place of our own.

Student Government

Colleen Cathcart listens intently to ideas suggested by other officers.

The Class of '76

In our Junior year we elected the class officers of "76". Never before had a ballot been so filled with names. It seemed that everybody in our class wanted to be involved in the student government. The results were: Cheryl Valerio — the first female Senior Class President in M.H.S. history; Donald Pearson — Vice President; Debbie Clifford — Treasurer; Cindy Amara — Secretary; and Pam Harrington and Colleen Cathcart — Representatives.

The officers have had a year filled with plans. In the opening months of school, the Seniors had a few social activities. During this time they were also preparing for the Prom and our reinstated Class Day. There were many money-making activities, especially in the days before Thanksgiving when lunch periods were filled with the sounds of the "Super Stereo". The Halloween Party, the Thanksgiving Day Pancake Breakfast, and every activity following these has proved successful to all involved.

S.A.C.

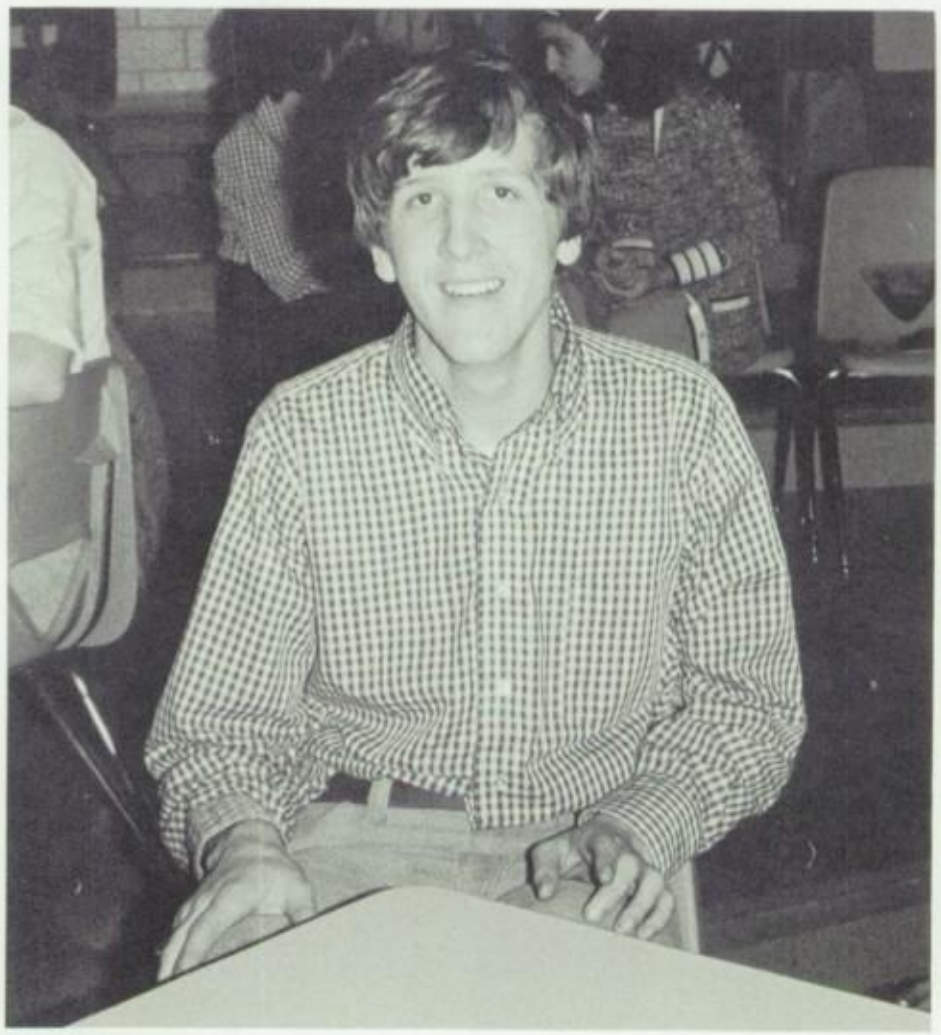
The S.A.C., the Student Advisory Council to the School Committee, meets with Mr. Croston and Dr. Quinn to discuss student affairs which come under the jurisdiction of the School Committee. Because the S.A.C. must meet during school hours, arranging meetings is difficult; however, much is accomplished during their meetings. The S.A.C. attends School Committee meetings and is the representative group for student opinion. Open to suggestions at any time, this group has tried to express the views of the students clearly and to open up relationships between the student body and the administration. So far, their efforts have been very commendable.

S.A.C. Members: L. Rucci, S. Cusolito, C. Reedy.

INTERNATIONAL CLUBS

French Club

The French Club began their year by electing their officers. The results were: President — Debbie Rice, Vice President — Scott Kelley, Secretary — Donna Emery and Treasurer — Susan Clark. With these able officers and a dedicated advisor, Ms. Leighton, the French Club has filled its year with many activities. The first activity included an evening of French desserts and slides. One of the biggest events of the year was the International Christmas Party. Some members of the club made traditional French dishes, while others sang Christmas carols. The French Club worked diligently on a French newspaper and a cookbook with French recipes donated by the members. At this time, the officers were also planning a "Mardi Gras" and a trip to Quebec City.



Vice President — Scott Kelley.

The Spanish Club

The Spanish Club, directed by Mr. Riccio, holds many special events along with regular meetings. At the International Christmas Party some club members put on a small skit for the other language clubs. The highlight of the year is the trip to Boston to a Spanish restaurant and a museum. Near the end of the year an award will be given to the most outstanding Spanish student by the club. The elected officers in the club are President — Vicki Cerulle, Vice President — Lee DeAmicis, Treasurer — Karleen Bertulli, Secretary — Karen Crowley, and Publicity — Jean McLaughlin. Each student makes the Spanish Club a rewarding and educational experience.

Participants in the club's skit at the International Christmas Party.

The Italian Club

The Italian Club, led by President Frank LoPilato, Vice President Jean Ricciardelli, Secretary Lorna D'Amico, and Chairmen Larry D'Amato and Rhonda Farina, participated in many activities throughout the year. Dinner at an Italian restaurant began the year and before Christmas everybody participated in the International Christmas Party. Plans were made for a possible trip to Italy to visit the cities of Rome, Florence and Venice. To conclude the year, a final banquet was held and the election of next year's officers took place.

Drama Society

The Drama Society is comprised of extremely creative and talented individuals. Through these individuals come some great performances. In the fall, a one act play is presented for both the community and the State Competition. In the spring, the group puts together a three act play which along with the fall presentation helps to finance the Drama Society.

As the year draws to a close, the club travels to Stratford, Connecticut to participate in a Shakespeare Festival and at the final meeting, the officers for the following year are elected. Not only the High School, but the entire Melrose community benefits from the well performed plays put on by the Drama Society.

The IMPRINT

"To expose in order to remedy, to praise in order to support — attacking neither personalities nor institutions but the evils which destroy them."

This year brought new positions, new faces, and new ideas to the IMPRINT. With seniors David Mongeau as Editor-in-chief and Angela Travis as Assistant Editor, the newspaper once again completed a year of successful publications, including the traditional Misprint and Senior Class Will. Carrying the newly-designed masthead, the IMPRINT issues brought news, sports, features, and creative writing to the student body. The controversial highlights of this year's volume include the editorials on the death of the English language and the reprint of an article concerning birth control, the former prompting a response from the English Department Head and the latter establishing the principle of freedom of the press.

Though shuffled around and never given an office to themselves, the IMPRINT staff did not permit their spirits to be blunted. This year, they raised more money than ever before. The haunted presence of Brenda Vacarro overshadows the repeated success of the IMPRINT.

"Wake me up when it's over."

We will never forget the '75 season,
Victories, rallies, and brunches, the reasons.
Practice and practice, day after day,
To perfect our performance this was the way.
PEOPLE and SMILES we will always remember,
In sun or rain from September to November.
Pre-game march was our favorite each game,
And remembering half-times which were never the same.
Memorable brunches and lively bus rides,
Spirit, fun and that great Melrose pride!
We had fun with the rally, the Wizard of M,
And the memories we have will never end.

TUMBLERS

This year the Tumblers continued to delight audiences both before football games and during the half-time shows. Advised by Mrs. Taffe, the girls performed routines which everyone helped to put together . . . dominos . . . pyramids.

The team will always remember the seven seniors: Cheryl, for constantly being late . . . Georgia, for encountering obstacles en route to practice . . . Sheila, for doing everything slowly . . . Susan, for never missing practice . . . Ruth, for slipping in the mud . . . Joan, for falling on her nose . . . Lisa, for laughing all the time. The girls will never forget that one rainy Saturday which practically wiped out the entire team and those nighttime practices . . . "That looked terrible" . . . "Let's do it again" . . .

Pep Club

Despite the late start, the Pep Club was able to continue to encourage spirit throughout the school. By rising above conflicts, the members managed to work together. Under Miss Caffrey's guidance, the club provided buses to away games, decorated the building and sponsored the annual dances and pep rallies.

We got to get this thing organized . . . next week . . . two hours and only thirty-six more posters . . . if she's late . . . I want to make his poster . . . keep the Sophs working . . . Who can draw good? . . . 5 a.m. sunrise . . . I don't believe she spilled the turpentine . . . feedbags . . . How do you spell tackle? . . . Fanny Farmers.

Pal Club

Reaching out to help others is the goal of the Pal Club. To achieve this goal, the members of the club participate in various community service projects. One major project is the Big Sister-Big Brother program. Once a week, a member of the club meets with a child to offer either entertainment or simply some love and understanding. In just a short time, an extremely close relationship is formed between the two people. To further strengthen this relationship, the Pal Club holds two special events for the Big Sister-Big Brother program — the Christmas Party and the Spring Outing.

Other activities sponsored by the Pal Club include helping handicapped and retarded children, and offering friendship to lonely senior citizens.

The Pal Club is educational and highly worthwhile. While the members learn from their volunteer work, they also have a great time!

The purpose of a yearbook is to capture the history of Senior year in pictures and words so that it can be relived over and over again. In the fall we began our work by choosing the theme — "at last we've found a place of our own," hoping that it expressed what we felt about being in the new school. We did not want this to be a yearbook that could have come from any other class in any other year — we wanted it to be our own.

Together we lived through deadlines, pictures — lost and found — and good times. We have been like a team practicing for the one big game — the final production. Directed by Ms. Waterbury and Ms. Moran and coached by Joan Ford, we survived. We can never forget what we've learned from this experience. As the publication of the entire book approached, we realized that nothing could have been more satisfying than the work we did on it.

Glee Club

New faces and new voices marked this year's Glee Club as its new director, Mr. Joseph Messina, made his High School debut. The group consisted of ninth through twelfth graders who met not only in class but also at after school singing sessions. The Club performed at the annual Christmas Vespers and Spring Concert programs and many members held lead parts in the annual school musical. In the community, the Glee Club performed for city-wide, social, and church groups. Music at these functions varied from classical to sacred to contemporary.

After barely missing the play-offs for district championship last year, the Chess Club, or more appropriately called the Chess Team, began practicing for this year's competitions. This year there are more members than ever before on the team including two girls, whose presence is much appreciated.

The Distributive Education Club consists of thirty-three students who work with service and merchandise training. The new school store has played an important part in the club since its activities can only take place during school hours.

D.E.C.A. works in conjunction with the Cooperative Education Board whose main emphasis is working on service and distribution, allowing the students to experience these firsthand. Salesmen come to the school store, and the students decide what merchandise would be best to sell and what price it should be sold at. They are trained to find those things that would please the majority of the students, not just themselves. Their plan is to promote specials each month in the store. For example, in October they promoted winter clothing. In December the specials were Christmas oriented. They even hope to be able to sell gowns for the Senior and Junior Proms. Mr. Quinn feels quite pleased with the school store. "We are very fortunate to have it."

The club plans on taking a number of field trips to various distribution centers. Some of these include the Gillette Company, the Sheraton Hotel of Boston, the Government Center and the Stock Market. Mr. Quinn feels this will enlighten the students even further in Distributive Education.

BAND AND FLAG SQUAD

"If a man does not keep pace with his companions, perhaps he hears a different drummer . . ." The Band, with a touch of traditionalism and a touch of modernism, proudly marched its way onto the football field and concert stage once again this year. Directed by Frank DiGiacomo and co-student leaders Angela Travis and John Blackwood, the Band began its performing season at the Pep Rally in September. From the gym floor to the football bleachers, the Band, with its famed trumpet "Beat 'Em Up!" call, continued to lead Melrose High cheering sections at the games. With the co-student leaders and Senior Squad Leader Chris Atwood, the group entertained the football crowds with half-time programs of "Evil Ways", "Jazz Man", "Satin Doll", "Artistry in Rythm", "Conquest", "April in Paris", "Brazil", and "You Are The Sunshine of My Life".

After the excitement of the Thanksgiving Day football game, the Band moved indoors to perform in the annual music department's Spring and Pop Concerts. The talented group concluded the season with the traditional city-wide Memorial Day Parade and the graduation ceremonies. ". . . let him step to the music he hears, however measured or far away."

Modern Dance

After getting off to a late start, the Modern Dance Club finally organized itself into a close, hard-working group. Hindered by the lack of an advisor early in the year, the club had great difficulty in preparing their first show, which was a success because of the strong determination of each of the members. The girls made all their own costumes and scenery, and choreographed the dances themselves . . . "Where is everyone?" . . . "Don't say that, you can do it." . . . "TRY!" . . . "No, no, no, that's all wrong." . . . "Point those toes" . . . "Put more into your dance" . . . "SHAKE" . . . "It's good but" . . . "Wednesday is rehearsal — Be There!" . . . "practice, practice, practice" . . . "When can we use OUR room?" . . . "Variety Does Make The World Go Round".

HONOR SOCIETY

The Honor Society is composed of those Seniors who have attained Honor Roll the last two quarters of both their sophomore and their junior years. Although the Honor Society began slowly, they were able to accomplish a few things. The members were issued passes which allowed them to leave study hall in order to go to the Resource Center or to club meetings. The Honor Society also instituted a tutoring system to help those who needed help in different academic areas.

The memories are innumerable, the friendships are everlasting, the rewards are great. Led by the infamous Freeman T. Frank, the team has lived through snowstorms, cramped quarters, "breakin' down" cars, and an occasional missing partner. Despite all this, the team has managed to win many trophies in all divisions over the years. Outstanding senior debaters include President Cindy Amara and Vice President Pam Harrington.

Pam Harrington and Cindy Amara accept an award from the president of Suffolk University.

The Debate Club

The Jazz-Rock Ensemble

Although the ensemble is only three years old, it has grown to be known as one of the top high school stage bands in the state. The group has been called upon to participate in many functions and civic activities this year including performances at the Rotary Club, elementary schools, state jazz festivals and competitions, Senator Kennedy's visit to the high school, assembly programs, Melrose Heritage Day, and Jazz-Rock Night. The Ensemble is directed by Mr. Frank DeGiacomo and includes: Trumpets: Richard Pigeon, Dana Burns, Tom Ledoux, Tom Doyle, Dave Belcher; trombones: Jeff Surette, Mark Metcalfe, Doug Bond, Glenn Olson and Cornell Hooton; saxaphones: Chris Atwood, Tom Norton, John Wooldridge, James Capone and John Blackwood; rhythm section: Ann Sybicki, Kori Scarborough, William Ring, Kristin Tallberg, Steve Wolpe and Robert Blasi.

Orchestra

The Melrose High Orchestra is an active organization. Directed by Mr. Theodore Leutz, the Orchestra has been taught the techniques of group performing. They participated in shows for both the elderly and the children of Melrose. The group played in successful Vespers programs and Spring Concerts. Their music added much to the school productions of "The Sound Of Music", "Oliver" and "Fiddler on the Roof".

Business Club

The Business Club is affiliated with the Office Education Association. This is an organization sponsored by the U.S. Department of Education and the State Department of Education to foster programs of interest, both educationally and socially, for students involved in Occupational Education.

In cooperation with the Home Economics Department, the Business Club students participated as models in a fashion show in January sponsored by the Simplicity Pattern Company.

The Business Club is looking forward to attending an Office Education Association Business Conference to be held at the Ferncroft in Danvers. This is an annual conference attended by high school business students from all sections of the state. The latest in business equipment is shown, and the students are allowed to use the machines; competitions in various subject matter are offered and business career people discuss the opportunities available in the "World of Work".

They are also interested in sponsoring their own educational, social, and moneymaking activities at the high school and, with field trips, to increase their business knowledge and to enjoy new friendships.

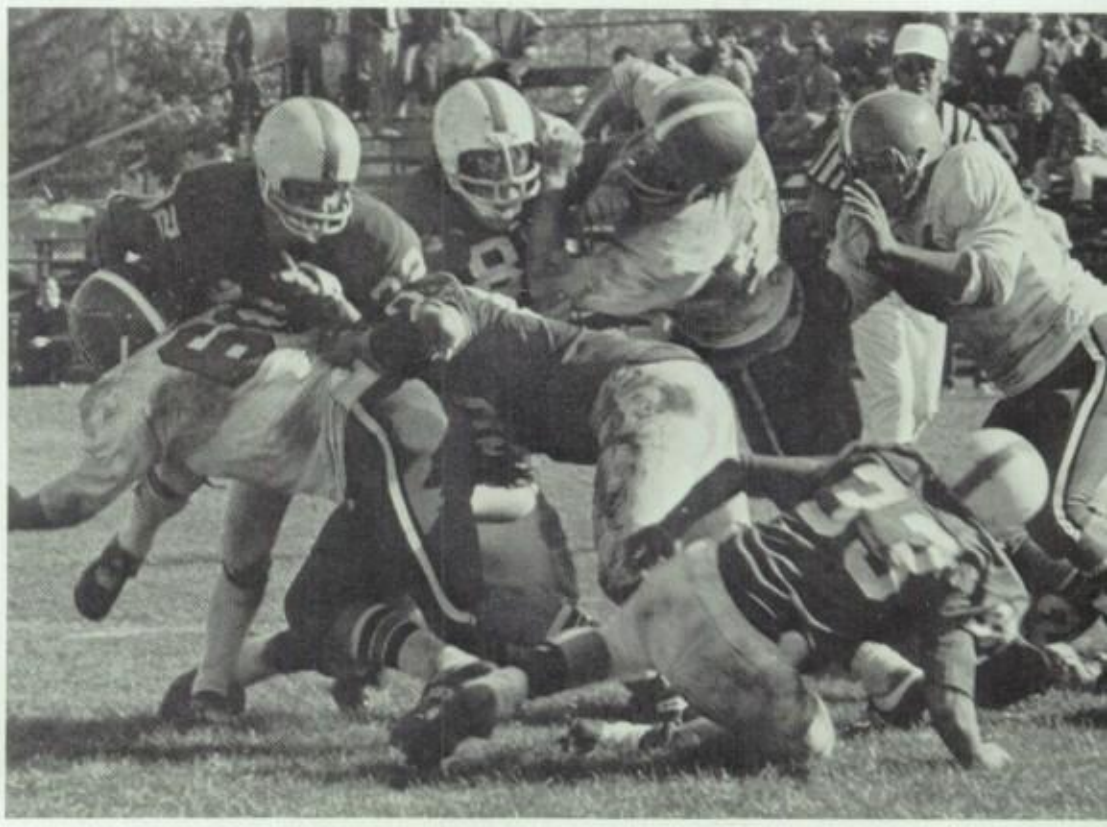
FOOTBALL: A SEASON FILLED WITH THE UNEXPECTED

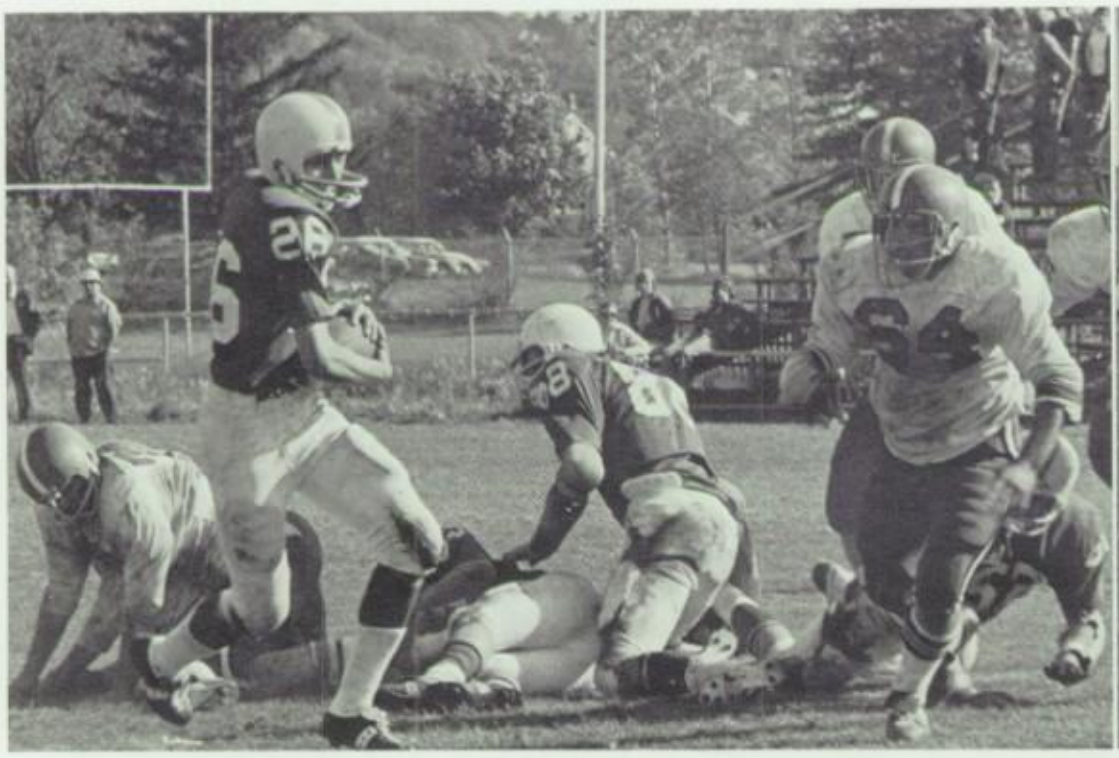
Captain Dan McCormack and Coach Joe Hoague.



Jack Muse pushes through a tight enemy defense.

After delaying the first game because of the weather, the football team began its season by beating a highly ranked Watertown 22-18. This upset victory placed them on top of the Boston Globe's Division 1 ranking which soon was to change. Before the second game Head Coach Joe Hoague suffered the heart attack that kept him out for the remainder of the season. Further plagued by injuries, miserable weather and close games, the team compiled the record of 1-7-1. They definitely outplayed their opponents in all but two games yet the outcomes did not reflect their hard and continuous efforts.

Included on the roster are twelve seniors: John Gill, John Eaton, Neil Rogers, Tom Hickey, Joe Hirschfeld, David Masel, Ray Blanchard, Captain Dan McCormack, Tom Stanton, Bill Pogor, Mike Lyle and Linus O'Donnell. Some played major parts on the field while others added support from the sidelines. Each in his own way contributed to the team that never gave up.



John Eaton bursts through the line for a short gain.

Jeff Simpson (no. 33) avoids two would-be tacklers on an end run.

"SOCCER'S SPIRIT'S STRONG"

The Soccer Team finished Middlesex League play with a record of 5-10-1. The team, led by Co-Captains Brian Hughes and John O'Hara, just could not put forth a solid winning streak throughout the season. They were not, however, without their outstanding players. Hughes led the team with twelve points, nine of which were goals. Halfback Nick Moise controlled most of the games from his position, while Bruce Johnson led the fullbacks. The goalie combination of Scott Colborne and Dan Callahan should also be credited for preventing many of their opponents' goals. Other contributing seniors were Billy Curry, Frank LoPilato, Nick Murphy, Al Cairns, Fred Hannigan, Peter LaSaffre, Jimmy Trusselle, and Steve Donovan . . . A building season . . . If you believe in Field Hockey, you gotta believe in Melrose High

Although this year's Field Hockey Team did not win as many games as it had hoped, not once did the girls lost their spirit and determination to win . . . "We believe!" . . . With the "supa" dedication of Coach Jan Johnston and the leadership of Captain Laura DiMeo, the team fought each game to the last second . . . "Don't quit" . . . Because of their outstanding skill, goalie Brenda Downey and halfback Laura DiMeo were selected for the league All-Star Field Hockey Team.

Wrestlers Pin Their Opponents

The Wrestling Team coached by Mr. Ball, although dominated by underclassmen, based its fine season upon the outstanding job of the following four seniors:

Tri-Captain Andy Campbell having the finest season of his varsity career pinned all his Middlesex League opponents and later defended his sectional title at 169 pounds.

Tri-Captain Frank LoPilato highlighted the season with his first place finish at the Lowell Invitational Tournament and continued to have his best season.

Tri-Captain Bob Skane, also having a fine season, overcame many tough opponents. Bob, in defending his sectional title, hoped to improve his second place finish in the state tournament.

Bill Curry, the fourth senior on the squad, vastly improved on his previous record. The highlight of the season was his third place finish at the Dedham Holiday Tournament.

Swimmers Waiting For The Gun

This year's Swim Team is the best Melrose has seen in recent years. Because of its previous success, the team has moved from the Northern League and now competes in the more competitive Western League. Even with this more challenging League, the team, led by Co-Captains John Gill and Tom Nordberg, managed to come out on top once again. Rick Croteau, Kevin Hunt, and Peter Swindlehurst performed well throughout the year. Also senior girls Sandy Chadwick, Nancy Putnam, and Kathy Evans gave great support to their teammates. Next year Donna Nordberg, Lisa and Tanya McManus, Maria Rudolph and outstanding underclassman Ed Kodgis are expected to carry the team.

WE'RE NUMBER ONE

There is not much that has to be said about the hockey team. They set their goal at Middlesex League Champs early in the year and earned the position by becoming a well-organized, hard playing successful unit. The league play ended with a record of 15-2-1. It was highlighted by the two Burlington games, the first game finishing in a 4-3 victory for Melrose and the second finishing in a 2-1 defeat. The final game of the year came on February 28, 1976 when, in the first round of the Eastern Mass. Tournament, the team was defeated by Braintree, 4-2. This marked the end of a semmingly long season, a winning one that the players should think about with pride.

With many years of experience playing together, the Seniors constituted the main part of the team's strength. Representing Melrose in the Middlesex League All Star Game was Captain Jim DeYoung, Jim Boyden, Brian Hughes, Daryl MacLeod, Chuck Tryder, and Eric Wilson. Also Brian Hughes, Daryl MacLeod, and Eric Wilson were three of the top ten leading scorers in the League. Each skater was a super-star who had worked and drilled for the team's benefit. As a group, they worked until the team became one of the most respected in New England.

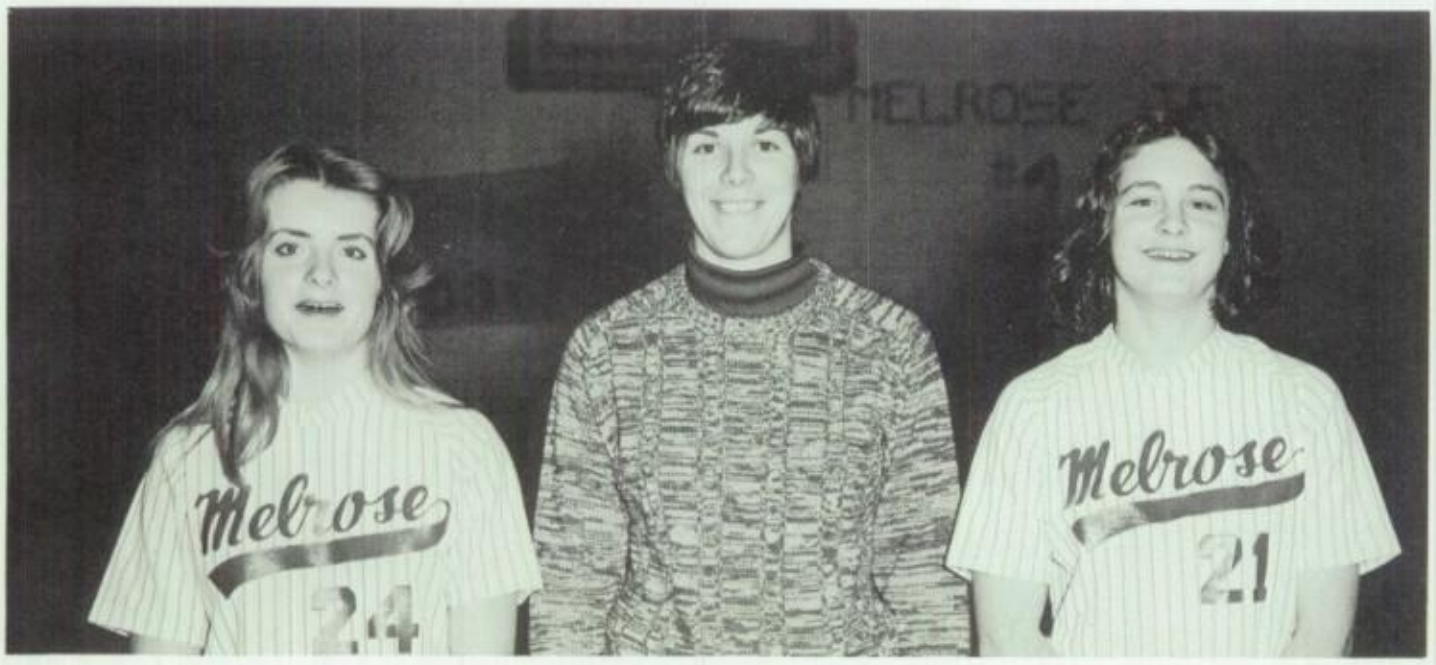
Raider Pride Runs Deep

"This is a building year, ladies." . . . the sophomore babes . . . "Atta girl, A.J.!" . . . "Pick up your man, Cindy." . . . "Cabe, watch your feet." . . . "Get off the floor, Denise!" . . . Mary, you held your own." . . . "Nice and easy on the shot, Nance." . . . the three juniors . . . "Relax Jan!" . . . "Care for an Eskimo, Checs?" . . . "Hey Rookie, smile! You're on Candid Camera!" . . .

With nine underclassmen on the squad, the Girls Varsity Basketball team this year concentrated on preparing for future seasons. Supa Coach Johnston, in her second year as head, taught the team not only the basics of offense and defense but also the spirit of sportsmanship and pride. Although there were times when the scoring was lacking, there was never a shortage of enthusiasm or spirit on the team. Led by Co-Captains Stephanie D'Agastino and Brenda Fogarty, the Raiders were "psyched" game after game. Bright spots on the team were senior Paula Tricca, high scorer for the season, and Debbie "Rookie" McGovern, consistent as both an offensive and defensive player. Every member of the squad, whether she was on the bench or on the court, however, had one thing in common: team pride. Throughout the season, Raider pride ran deep, especially in the seniors . . . . "Lola, how're your ankles?" . . . "Tric, here comes Faulkenstein!" . . . "Tone, show 'em how to drive" . . . "Stephanie, just SMILE!" . . . Forget it, Foge" . . .



Coach Janet Johnston with Co-Captains Brenda Fogarty and Stephanie D'Agostino.

Thanks for the help, Mr. Graham . . . communication is the name of the game . . . "Help first!" . . . defensive shuffle . . . Pinch! Go! . . . "Are you Italian? Well then, prove it!" . . . shoot-points . . . The Twelve Days Of Practice . . . Graham Crackers . . . "Who turned out the lights?" . . . "They have the height on us, but" . . . "This is our game" . . . "Get psyched, Melrose!" . . . "Don't quit" . . . "We'll get them next time." . . . Red Raider Pride, in the team, in the co-captains, in the coach, in the season.

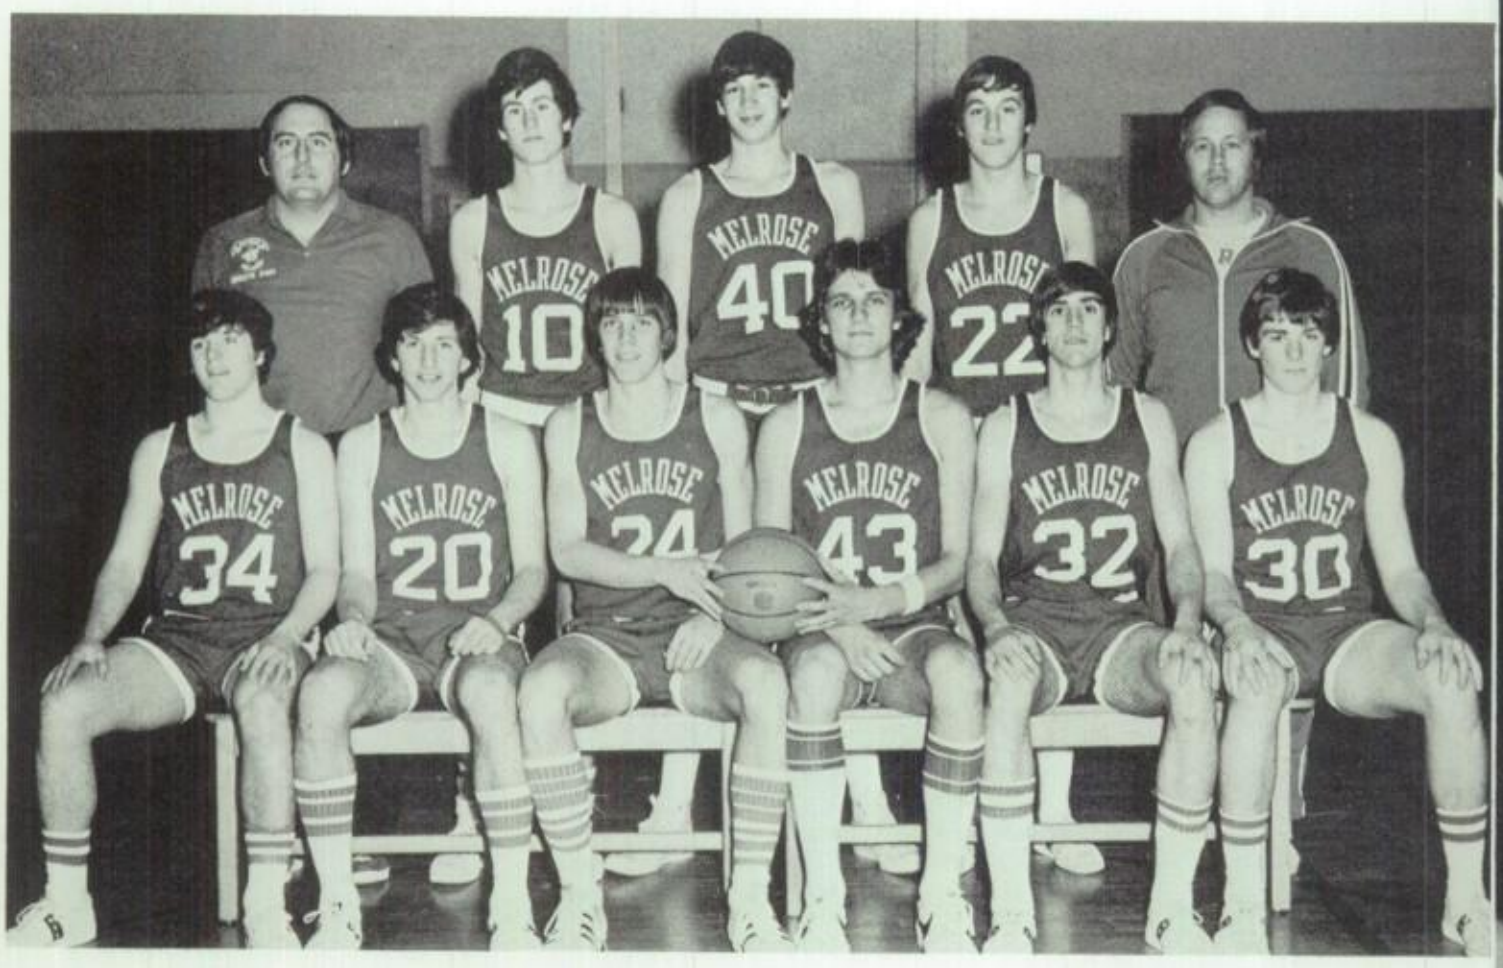
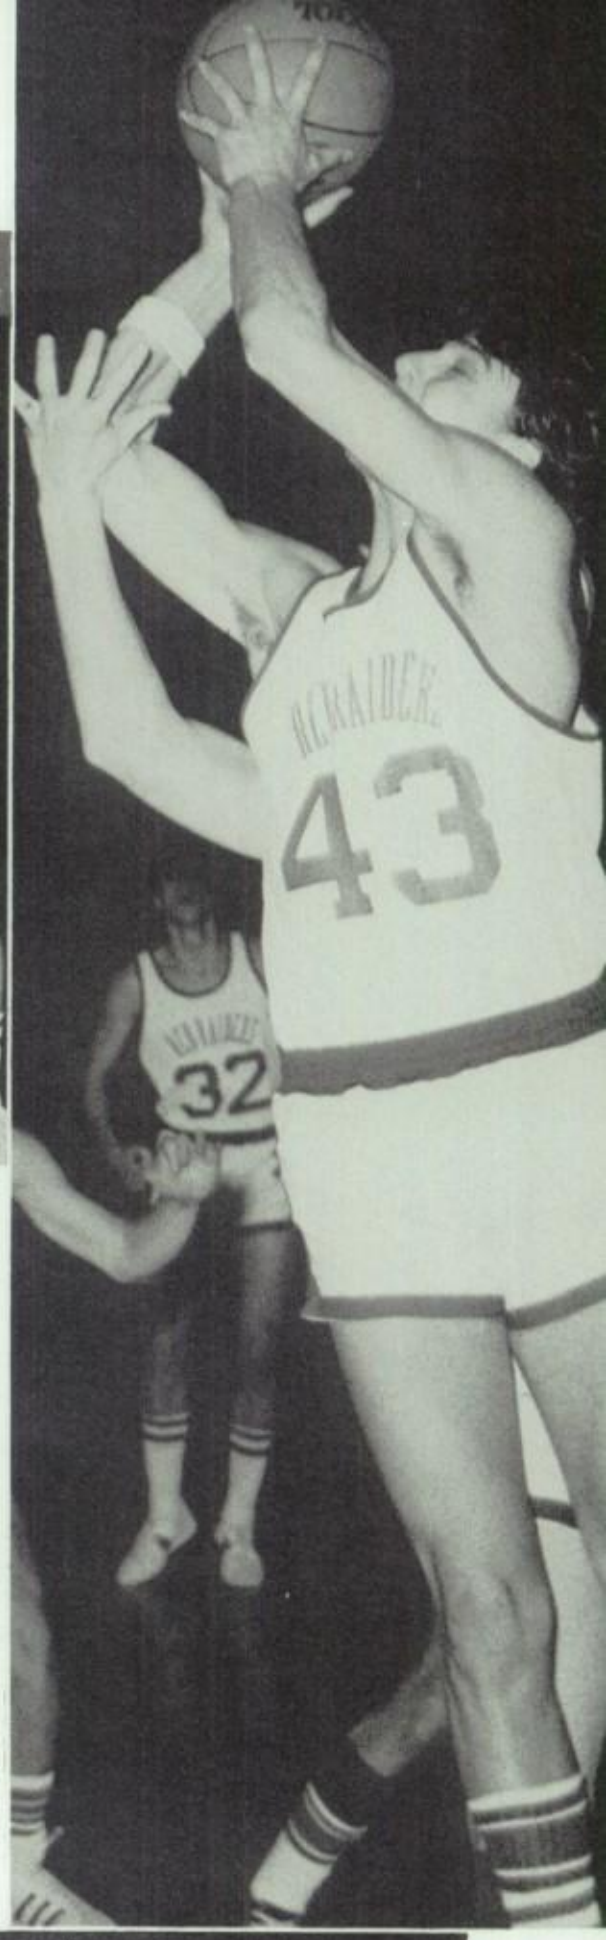
Boys Basketball Looks Toward The Future



Row 1: J. Simpson, R. Puntoni, Co-Captain J. Lynch, Co-Captain, B. Pogor, J. Eaton, K. McCormack. Row 2: Coach Scibelli, J. Willwerth, D. Whitehorn, S. Matteucci, Assistant Coach Gary Graham.



Lack of experience was the downfall of the 1975-76 Boys Basketball team. Led by only three seniors, John Eaton and Co-Captains Jimmy Lynch and Bill Pogor, the young team experienced a building season and hopes for an improved record next winter. All the same, this cannot be called a team without spirit and the will to win. The boys worked hard both at practice and in league competition and never let down until the final buzzer of the game.

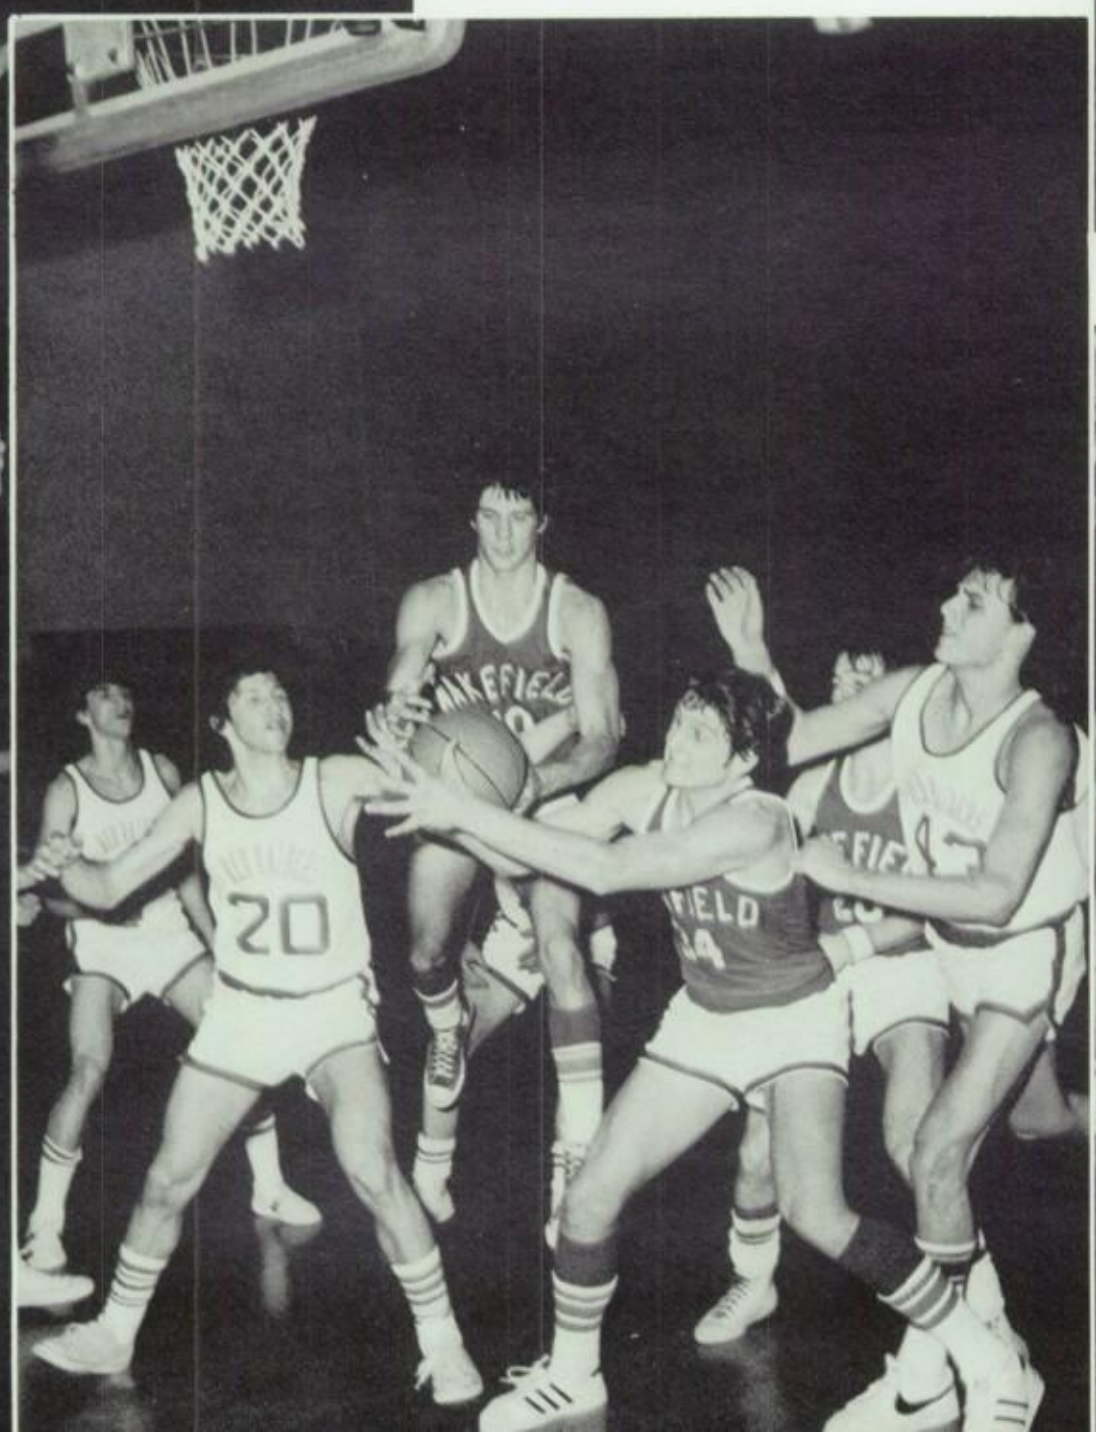
SPIRIT



Through rain and snow and cold of day, the Track Team ran their lives away.

This year the Winter Track Team experienced a growing season. Led by Co-Captains Chuck Thistle and Tom Matteucci, the team worked very hard all season although the weather did not cooperate with them. There were several veterans returning to the team and many of the underclassmen competed on the varsity level. They hold a lot of potential for the future.

Outstanding performances were turned in by Bruce Wenner — mile, Steve Scofield — hurdles, Tom Matteucci — dash, Chuck Thistle — 600, Mike Nee — high jump and Tony Maccario — 2 mile. Juniors "Bubba" Shea, Billy DeYoung, Rick Pierce, and Carl Maccario improved a great deal from last year and proved to be vital members of the team.

On January 28 Chuck Thistle had his golden locks shaved off by his illustrious coach, Mr. MacIntyre. The team was very spirited and dedicated and they look forward to an even better season next year.

Mike Nee barely misses the pole in the high jump.

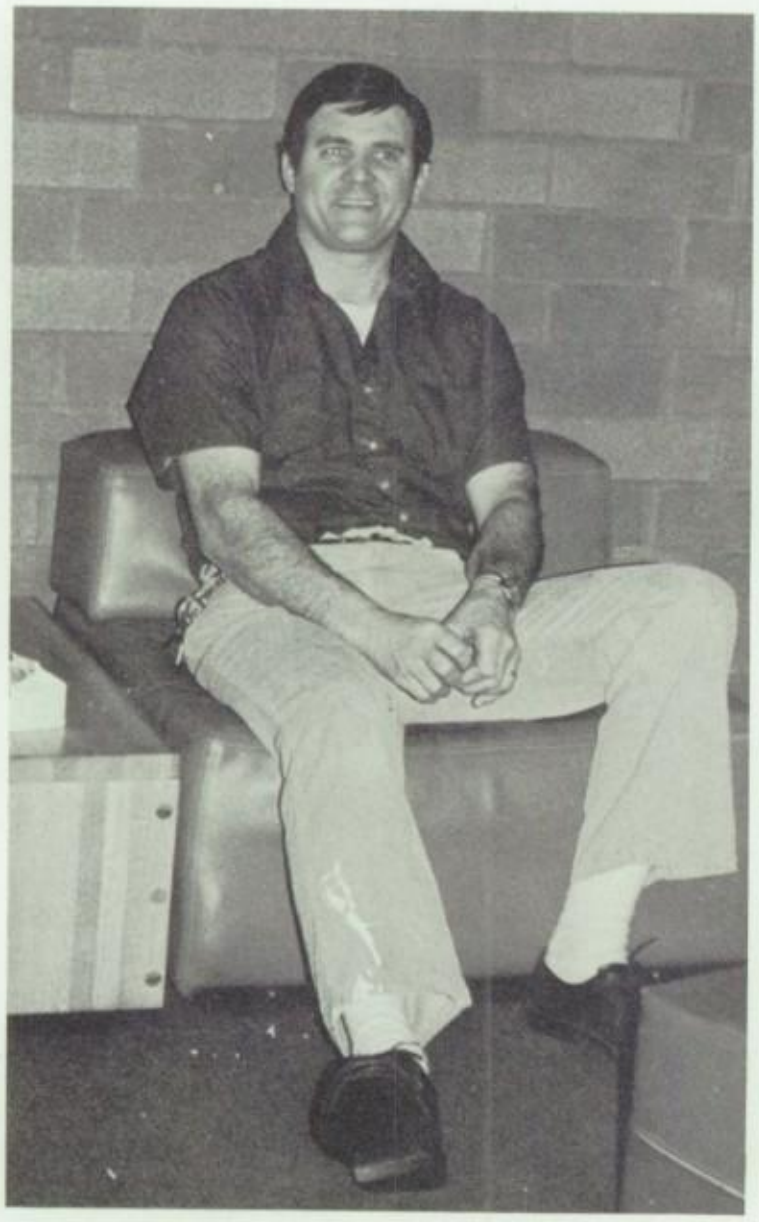
A Day In The Life Of M.H.S.

"I don't think I can face another day!"

"I know it's Tuesday but what DAY is it?"



"But I just cleaned it yesterday."

"Will the following students please report to Mr. LaRosa's office immediately."

"Zzzzzzzzz . . ."

"I think we've heard this somewhere before."

"Just because we wrote on our desks, they didn't have to take them away."

"Now let me show you my way, Dr. Rockwood."

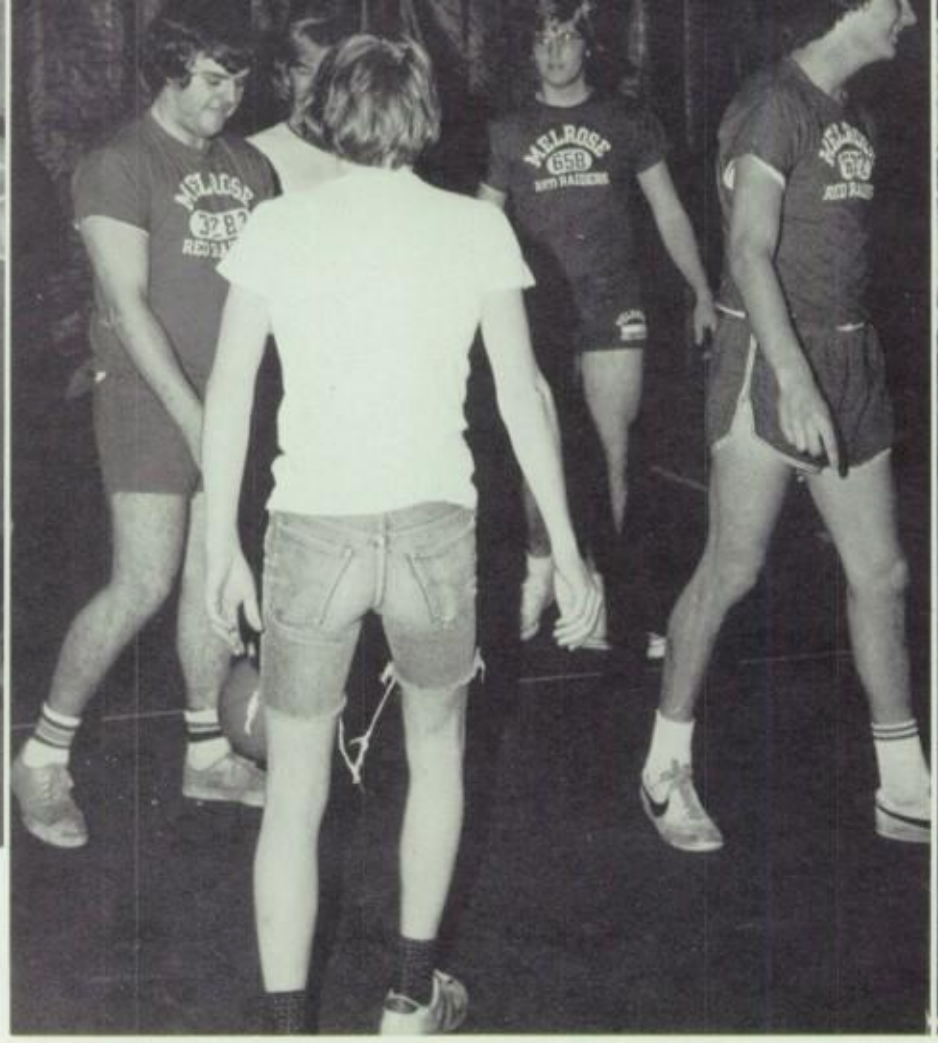
"Would you believe my dog ate it?"

"The height of dining elegance."

"Only one chocolate chip square, dear."

"Hmm . . . nothing beats the recipe!"

"That's the last time I let the Cosmetology students fool with me."



"Well, it beats square dancing."

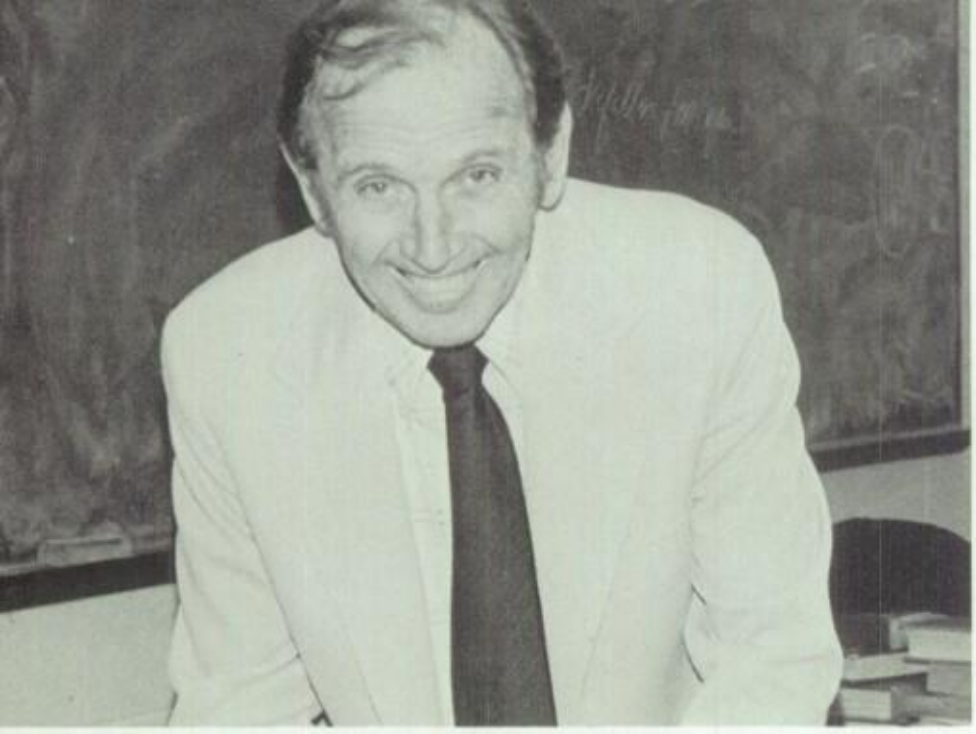
"I've gotta be me."

"Do you think we can save it?"

"Dynamite, another sub!"

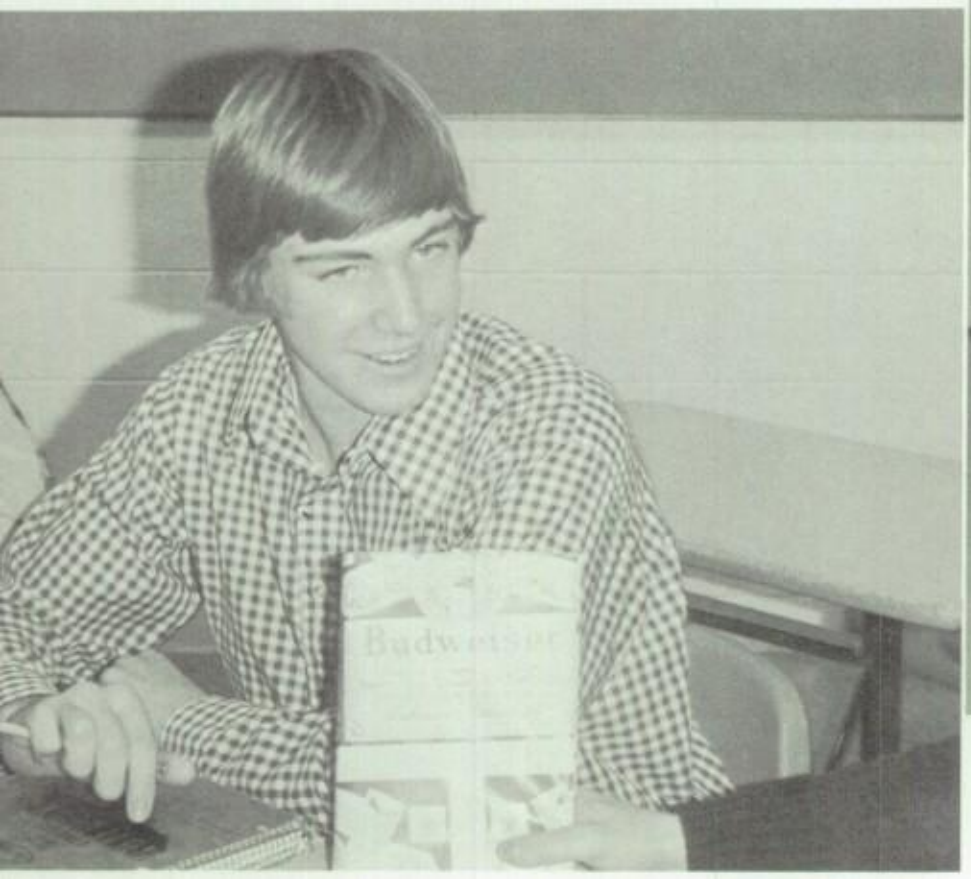
"Heard it through the grapevine."

"Bagged!"



"I saw your mother last night at P.T.A."

"He looks so different in real life."



"Thanks, don't mind if I do."

"Nothing like a co-ed class."

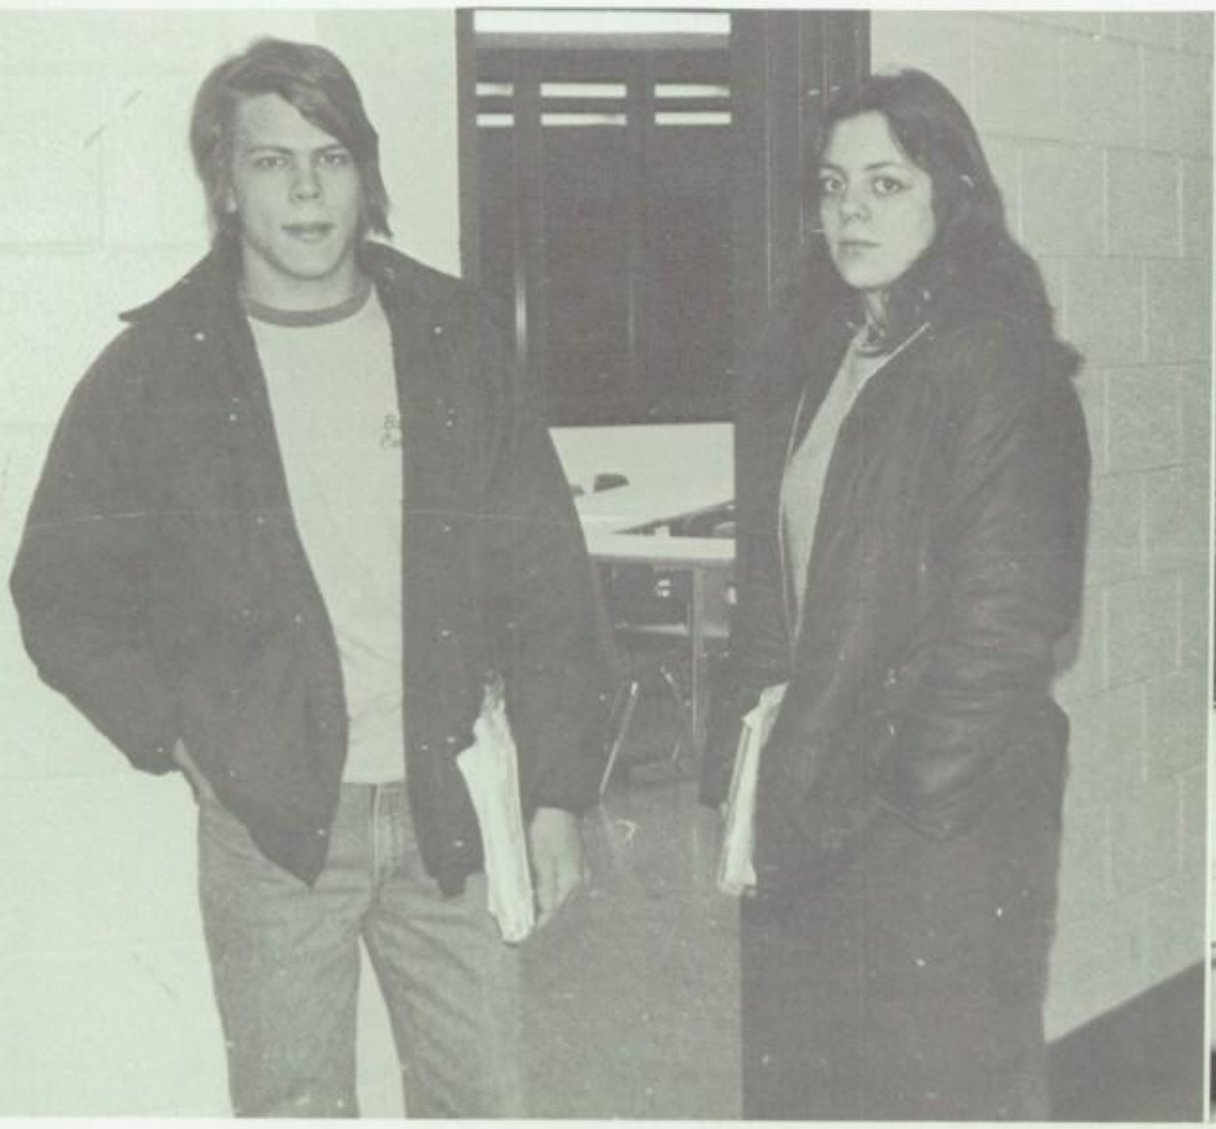
"I wouldn't do that if I were you."

"Love that 2:30 buzz!"

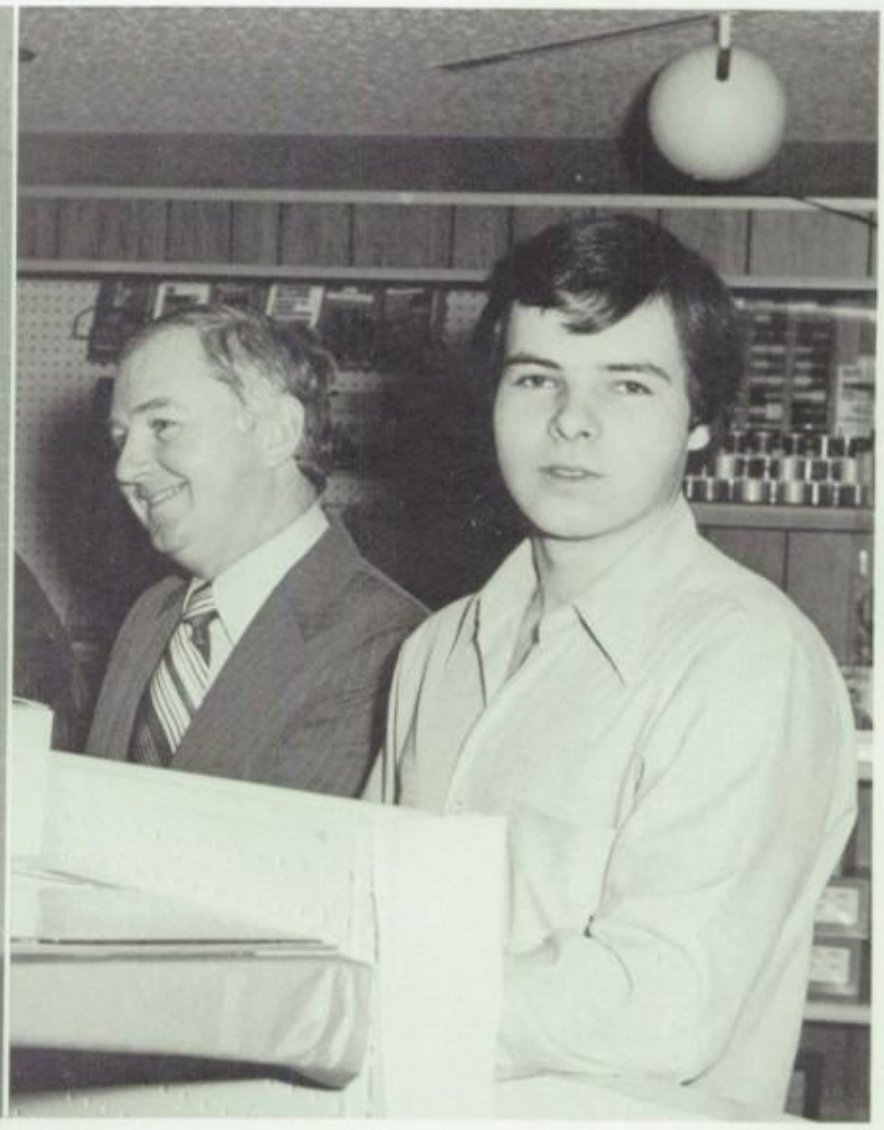
After spending our Senior year in the new school, the building seems secondary compared to the people who have shared it with us. Together we shared cap and gown measurements, Senior pictures, and the homeroom period when the sophomores and juniors filled out their schedules for next year. Now we are waiting to see what the future holds. We go now to find a new place of our own.

Tony Ciarcello and Anita Grassi take a break in Mr. Cooper's English class.

Lori Clifford and Eileen Lloyd — the Class Pals for '76 — exemplify the friendships found in the place of our own.



Jody Dunnet and Linda Perry — the '76 Class Couple — meet for a quiet talk before homeroom.

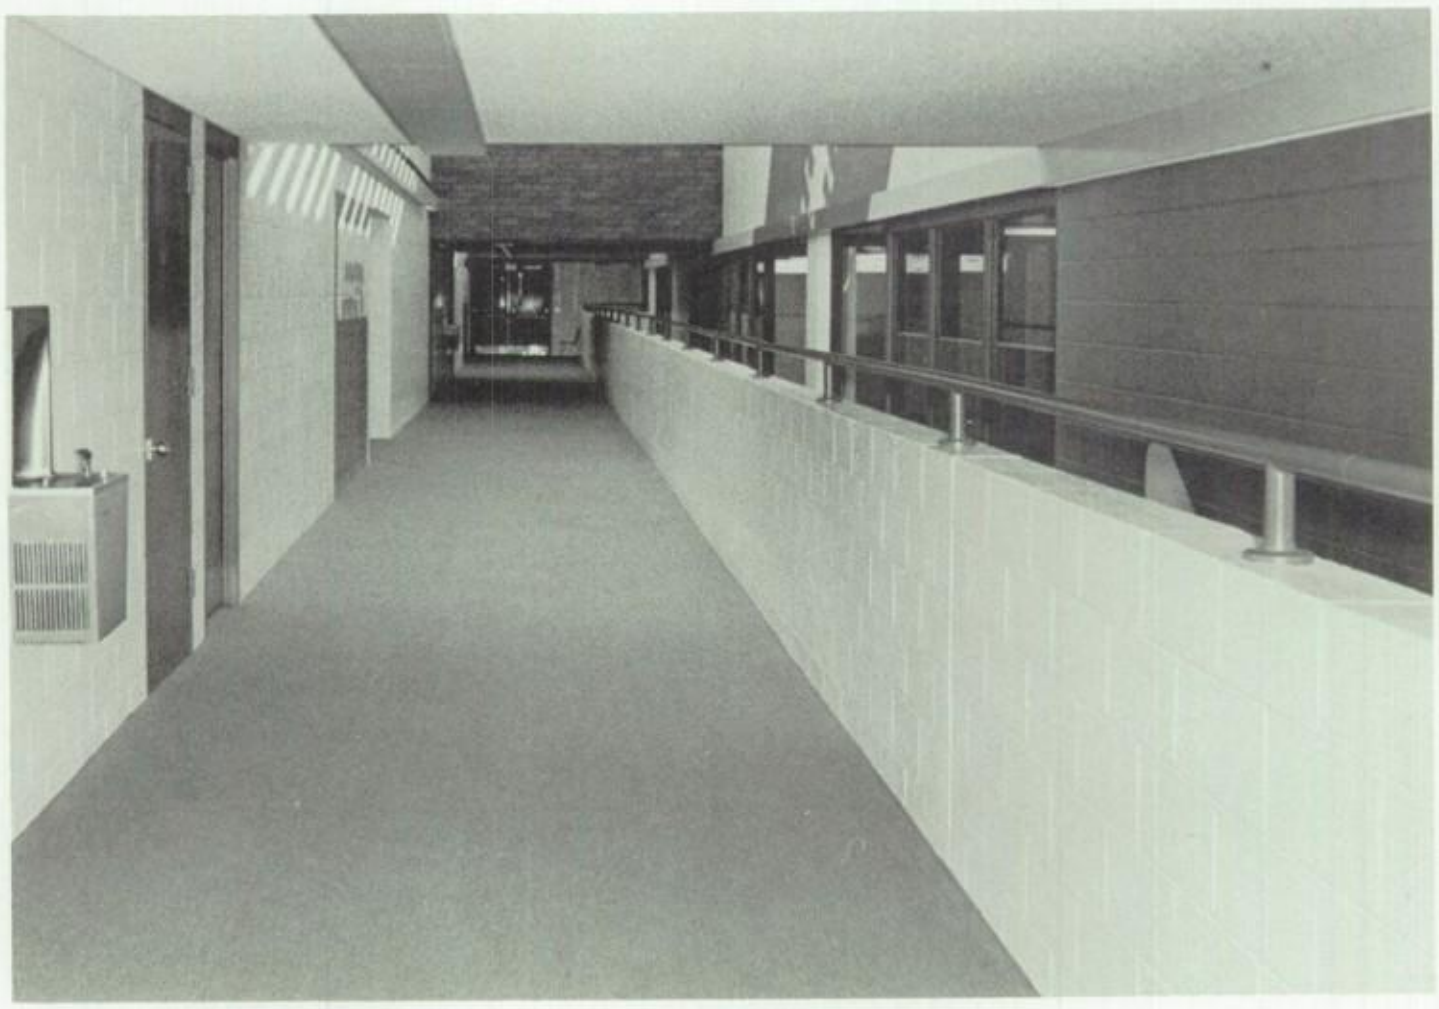


Jim Linsky and Mr. Quinn spend free time working in the School Store.

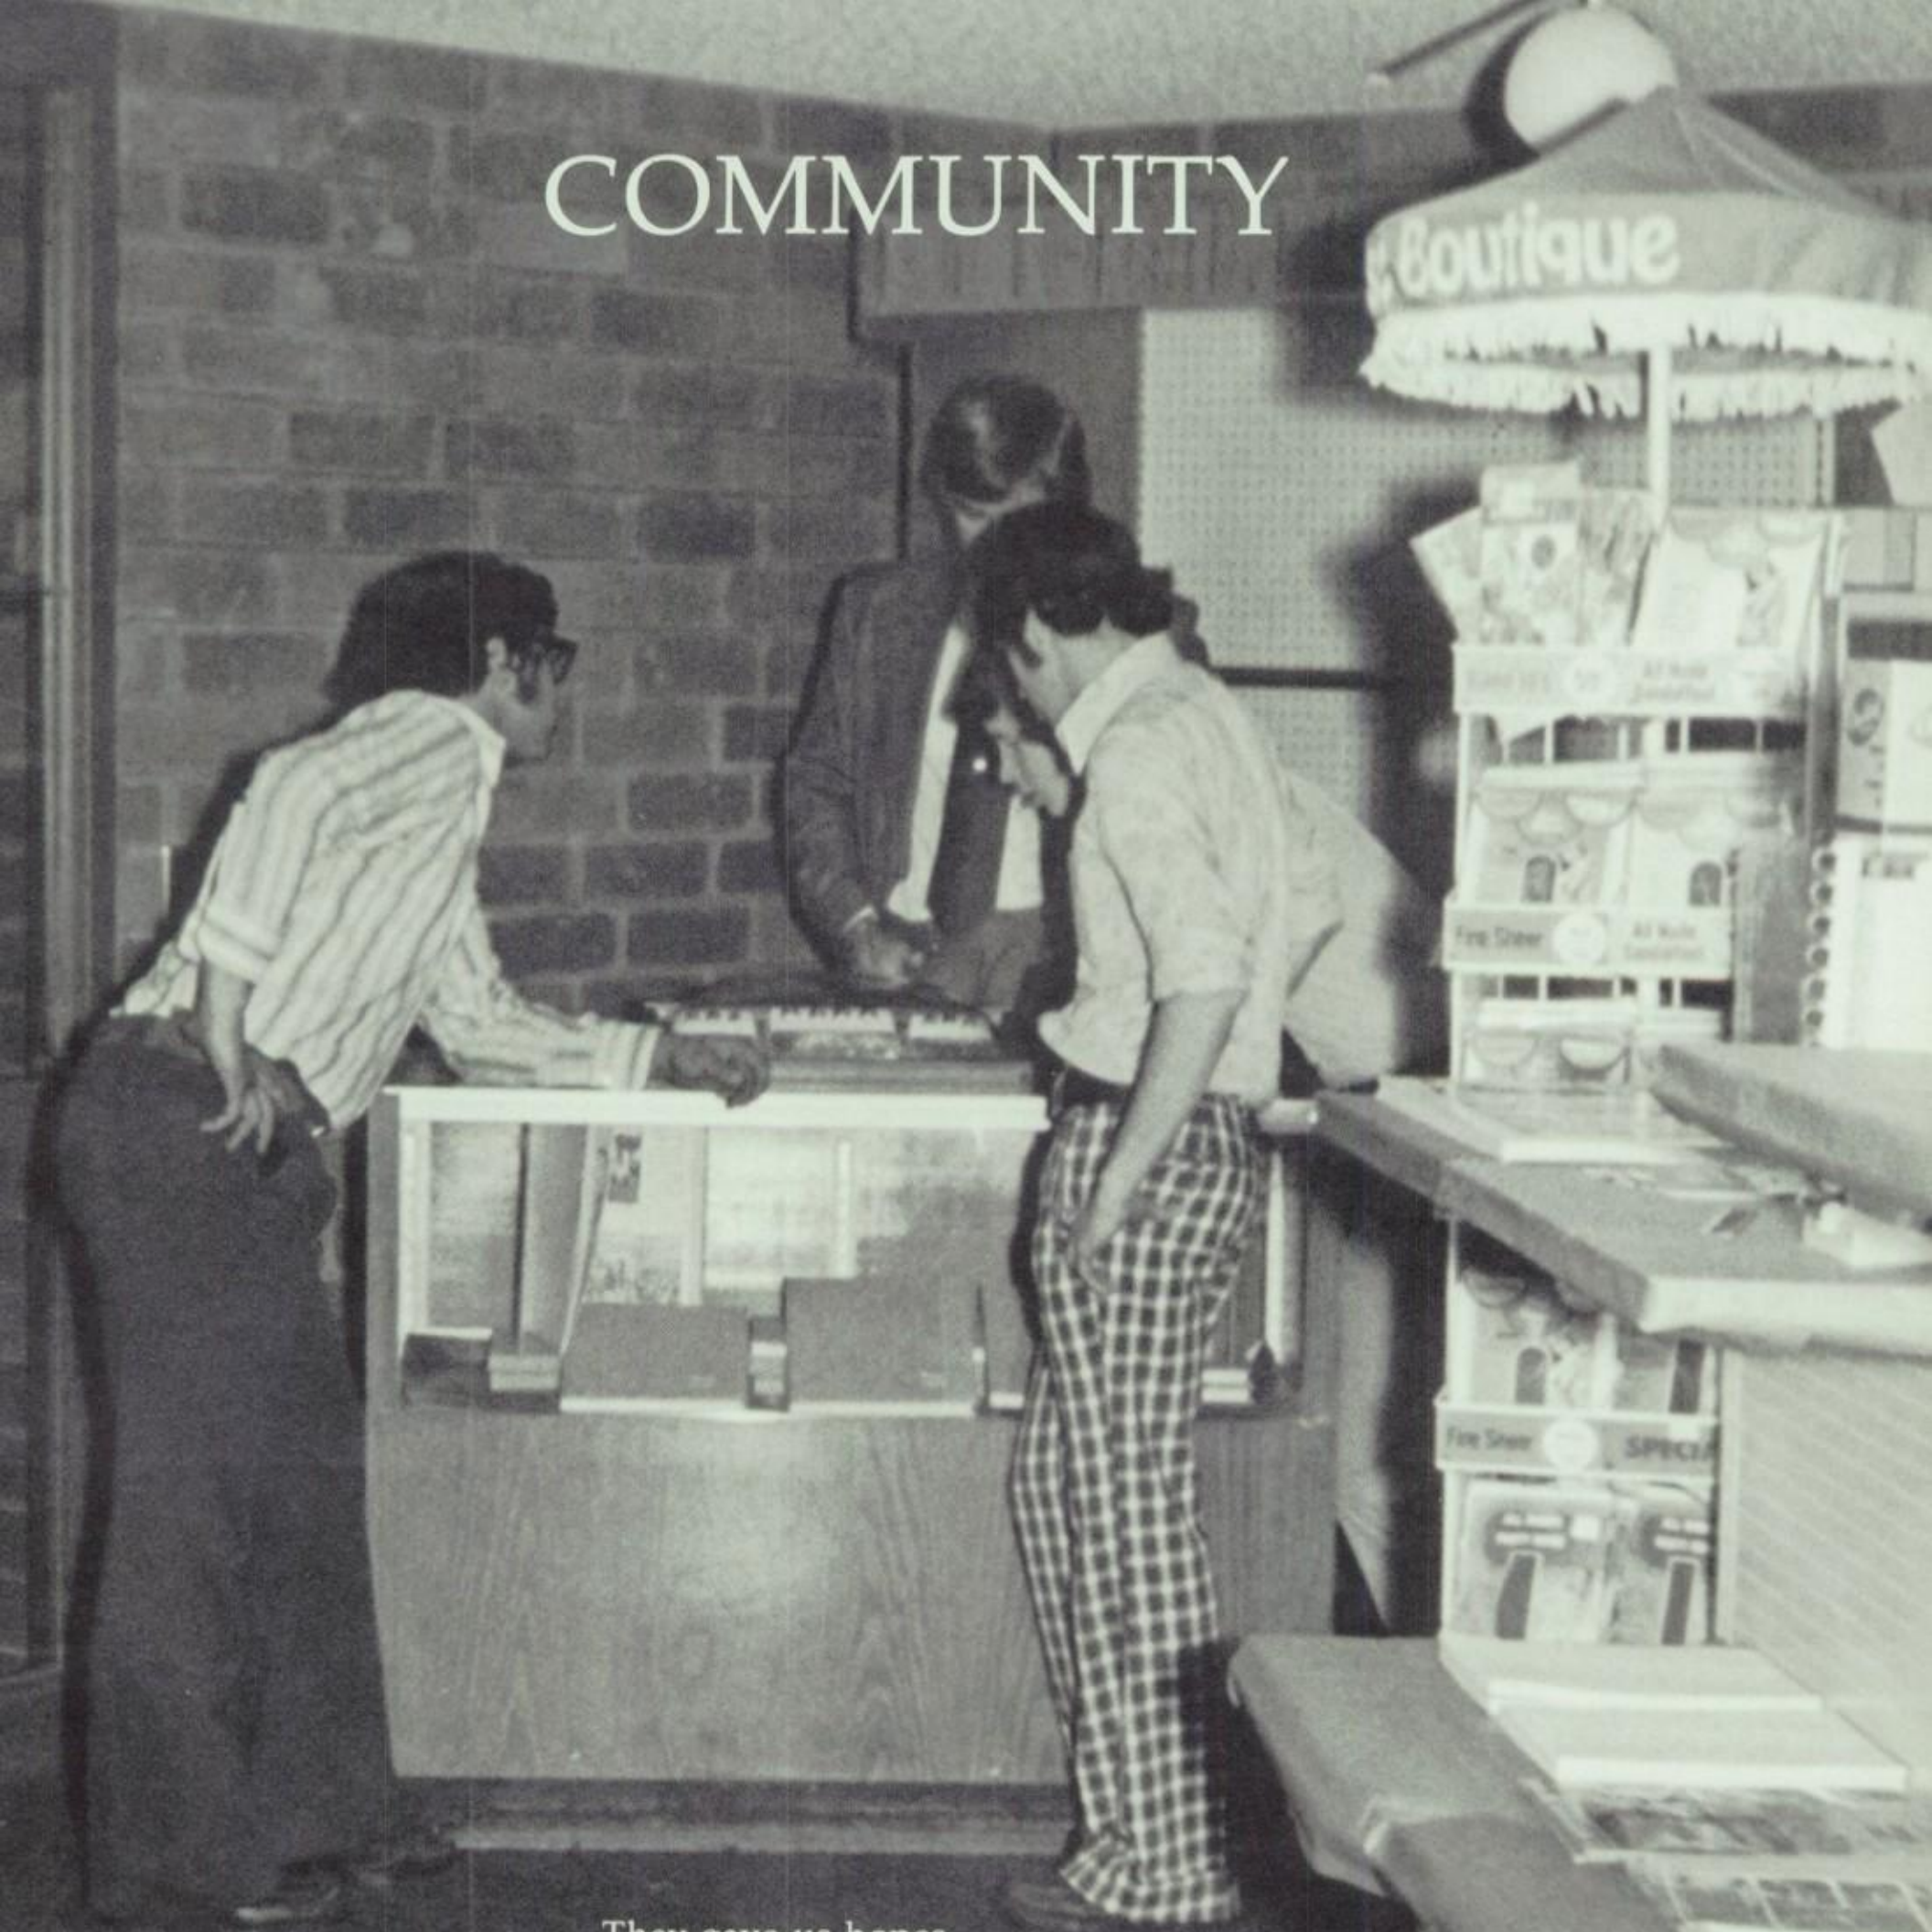
And Now We Leave To Find A Place Of Our Own

Nancy Tierney works dilligently in the cafetorium.

Jimmy DeYoung — voted the nicest looking boy in the Class of '76 — spends a quiet moment in the Resource Center.



COMMUNITY



They gave us hopes.
They filled us with dreams.
They voted no . . .
They changed their minds . . .
They voted yes . . .
They gave us back our hopes.
They built our dream.
The new Melrose High School.
At last we have a place of our own.
